Dixville Notch prefers Ford

Ballots being cast in New Hampshire

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Voters in New Hampshire chose between Ronald Reagan and President Ford on the Republican side and picked from a crowded field of Democrats in the nation's first presidential primary today.

By tradition, residents of the tiny mountain resort of Dixville Notch cast the first ballots seconds after midnight and gave the nod to President Ford and former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter.

Ford got 11 votes to Reagan's four. Among the Democrats, Carter got six and Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh, Arizona Rep. Morris K. Udall and write-in candidate Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington one each.

Campaign workers for all the candidates said there was a large segment of undecided Democrats and Republicans hours before most of the polls were to open at 6 a.m. Voting hours across the state vary, with polls closing as late as 8 p.m. in most of the cities and towns.

While Ford and Reagan clashed headon, the five major contenders competing in the Democratic contest were Carter, Udall, Bayh, former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris and R. Sargent Shriver, the party's 1972 vice presidential nominee.

Confusing the Democratic race further were eight lesser known candidates ranging from a Missouri minister to anti-abortion candidate Ellen McCormack. Write-in campaigns also were waged for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and former Texas Gov. John B. Connally, a Republican.

The close race between Ford and Reagan, the former two-term California governor, may come down to the basic tasks of getting supporters to the polling places. The Ford campaign staged a last minute telephone blitz on election eve urging people to vote.

Republican and Democratic strategists predicted a low turnout, perhaps no more than 100,000 on the Republican side. The state has about 164,000 registered Republicans, 115,000 registered Democrats and 140,500 independents.

In Washington, Ford told Maine Gov. James Longley on Monday that he was "quite confident and very optimistic" about his chances in New Hampshire, where Reagan spent all or parts of 19 days hunting for support.

But for the Ford camp there also was a worry about what effect Richard M. Nixon's trip to China might have on the election, since Nixon's fresh exposure might revive memories of Ford's decision to pardon the former President.

"I think people might be thinking about it, but they're not talking about it," said Hugh Gregg, Reagan's state campaign chairman.

The candidates of both parties hoped to ride a good showing here into the primaries ahead. There are 30 primaries to come after today, with Massachusetts and Vermont voters casting ballots March 2.

The New Hampshire primary has since 1952 been a barometer of candidate strength and weaknesses. No president since then has been elected without having won in New Hampshire first.

President Ford was the only candidate to flatly forecast victory, and an aide predicted the President will win "handily" although he declined to give specific percentages.

Gregg said he expected Reagan to get "something over 40 per cent." He said that showing would be considered a victory against an incumbent, though appointed, president.

Reagan campaigned Monday in Illinois for the March 16 primary there, and Ford was in Washington, where he took a slap at his rival, telling the National Governor's Conference that he would "never irresponsibly transfer serious problems from the federal government to the state governments without regard for human needs and fiscal realities."

Ford did not mention Reagan by name, but obviously referred to Reagan's proposal to transfer a variety

In Madison County court

Aggravated murder suspect arraigned

LONDON — John R. Hastings, 23, Rt. 3, Mount Sterling, was arraigned Monday before Madison County Court Judge Monte White on a charge of aggravated murder in Friday night hammer slaying of his father, Harold C. Hastings, 61.

Judge White set bond at $100,000 for Hastings and scheduled a preliminary hearing for Thursday. He also appointed Edward Van Deusen, a Plain City attorney, to represent Hastings.

The elder Hastings was slain about 6:30 p.m. Friday in the kitchen of the small house the family lived in on a farm on Anderson-Antioch Road just northeast of Mount Sterling.

Madison County Sheriff Herbert Markley said the elder Hastings apparently was slain during an argument with his son. He was struck six or seven times in the head with a claw hammer and died of massive head injuries.

The son was arrested at 2:30 a.m. Saturday following a high-speed car chase by Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson and Deputy Charles Wise.

The father's body was discovered by his wife, Alice when she returned home around 10:50 p.m. Friday from her job at Orient State Institute.

Sheriff Thompson and Wise spotted a parked car in northeastern Fayette County which sped off when they approached. The car, a 1968 model Chevrolet, matched the description of the one driven by murder suspect being sought by Madison County authorities.

The car was pursued by Sheriff Thompson and Wise for three miles and during the chase Thompson fired two shots above it. Two Madison County sheriff's deputies established a roadblock and stopped the car about 2:30 a.m. at the intersection of Post and Knight roads.

Hastings was armed with a .25-caliber automatic pistol. An occupant of the car, Roger L. Hastings, 17, the younger brother of the murder suspect, was not armed, investigating officers said.

Madison County Sheriff's Chief Deputy Robert Anderson said the younger brother was not involved in the slaying and did not even know of it at the time they were stopped.

Private funeral services for the elder Hastings were held today in the Porter Funeral Home, Mount Sterling.

Witherspoon to end 35-year mail career

Local postmaster sets retirement

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

Richard R. Witherspoon, postmaster at the Washington C. H. Post Office for the past five years, will retire from the position effective Feb. 29.

Witherspoon, 57, has served as postmaster since 1971. The decision to retire after 35 years of service was reached by Witherspoon "four or five months ago," he said.

An officer in charge will be appointed for the local office and he will serve in the position for about four months before a new postmaster is selected. Witherspoon said the officer in charge will not be considered for the postmaster's appointment.

Witherspoon, who began his postal service career in Washington C. H. in 1941, was named officer in charge by the Cincinnati regional office on Nov. 1, 1969, upon the retirement of Frank E. (Shanty) Boylan who had held the position following the death of Postmaster Clark Wickensmeyer.

As postmaster, Witherspoon has been responsible for establishing policy for the Washington C. H. office and providing supervision for the 33 employees of the local office.

Witherspoon, 726 Yeoman St., was the first postmaster in Washington C. H. "to go through the ranks." Prior to his selection as postmaster five years ago, the position was held by political appointments. The postmaster's position was established in Washington C. H. in 1813.

Despite handling complaints from sometimes angry customers and the frequent criticism received, Witherspoon said he has "never regretted" the postal service profession.

"I've enjoyed it immensely and there's always been a great bunch of fellows to work with here. They've made it real easy for me," Witherspoon said.

Witherspoon, whose first experience in the postal service profession came when he served as a substitute clerk

Only three rehearsals remaining

Lions Club show taking shape

With only three rehearsals remaining, preparations for the Washington C. H. Lions Club's annual variety show are nearing completion.

The show's dancers, singers and those involved in specialty acts and skits will be adding the final touches to the bicentennial-flavored production during two practice sessions this week and one rehearsal next week.

But, while the cast members are rehearsing for the final times, a number of other persons have been working diligently in preparation for the musical comedy program entitled "Happy Birthday U.S.A."

Costumes are being completed this week by a committee headed by Mrs. Frank Weade while the unheralded stage crew is busy arranging the proper lighting techniques, stage scenery and sound equipment in the Washington C. H. Middle School auditorium where the performance will be presented.

A full dress and rehearsal will be held Saturday, March 6. The show will open at 2 p.m. Sunday, March 7 and the production will also be staged at 8 p.m. on Monday, March 8 and Tuesday, March 9.

Rehearsals, which were launched Jan. 14, have been moved from the Fayette Progressive School to the Washington C. H. Middle School auditorium where the three final practices will be held.

Co-producer Larry Lehman said this year's production will be highlighted by patriotic, popular tunes, minstrel and spiritual numbers in addition to snappy

Terry Feick, principal at Belle-Aire Elementary School, said parents of kindergarten and first graders will eat from 12 to 12:30 p.m.; second and third graders from 12:30 to 1 p.m.; and fourth and fifth graders from 1 to 1:30 p.m. Lunches are priced at 55 cents.

dance routines and rib-tickling comedy skits. The pattern of the two-hour show will trace high points of the nation's history over the past 200 years and will be a prominent feature on Fayette County's bicentennial celebration activity calendar.

The show, according to Lehman, will begin with segments and songs by an almost entirely male chorus from the popular Broadway musical "1776." Following the "1776" opening will be a spiritual and minstrel music chorus, a Civil War era section, a portion entitled "Work Built America" to be followed by a birthday party chorus and a patriotic finale.

Tickets are being sold on a reserved basis this year in anticipation of record-shattering audiences. The tickets, priced at $2 per person, can be purchased from any member of the Lions Club.

At Wednesday's meeting

Council to consider income tax measure

Washington C. H. City Council will act on a proposed one-half per cent income tax ordinance Wednesday night, and City Manager George H. Shapter will request that the ordinance be passed immediately as an emergency measure.

Shapter will ask City Council to suspend the three-readings requirement and pass the ordinance during the meeting so that necessary preparation can be completed before the April 1 effective date of the tax itself.

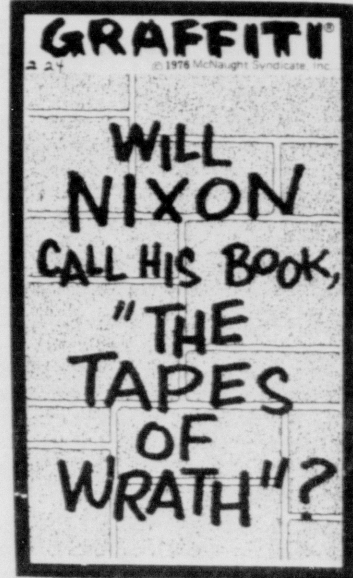

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the City Office Building.

Shapter noted that time will be required to engage the services of a computer firm to handle the tax information. If Steele Data Processing, Washington C. H., is not the successful bidder, the city's entire tax system would have to be reprogrammed by the successful computer firm, he said. The city manager added that it is important to begin April 1 because it is the first day of the second quarter of the year which simplifies withholding for local employers.

In other matters, an ordinance authorizing payment of bills due C. F. Bird and R. J. Bull, Inc., the city's engineering firm on the sewer project, will appear for its third reading, and an ordinance to accept the annexation of land owned by Elizabeth Gray will be presented for the first time.

The city manager has met with officials of the Dayton Power and Light Co. and will discuss with Council the methods used to reduce the number of street lights in operation. The process will require several weeks, and Council will be asked to select the lights which are to be turned off.

Nixon trip sparks ire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon's visit to China is stirring criticism from both sides of the political spectrum but has won the support of Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield.

New Hampshire newspaper publisher William Loeb said he thinks Nixon's trip "is rather pathetic." Loeb, an outspoken conservative, told the Washington Press Club Monday night that Nixon is "attempting to pull up his image by going over there." He said, "I wish the Chinese would keep him."

In Congress, Rep. Donald Riegle, D-Mich., said in a speech on the House floor that "all America ought to be outraged at the tasteless behavior of former President Nixon for his obvious meddling in U.S. foreign policy."

Riegle said, "What business does President Ford have in providing Secret Service protection to a crook like Nixon, who is so shameless he still hasn't been man enough to say he's sorry to the American people?"

Mansfield said Nixon's visit will help keep U.S.-Chinese contacts alive. He also said he assumes Nixon will report to the State Department on his return.

Meanwhile, some State Department officials reacted angrily to Nixon's toast in Peking which they interpreted as a slap at the Helsinki conference on security and cooperation in Europe, originated during the Nixon administration.

During his toast at a welcoming banquet, Nixon said it was "naive" to believe that the "mere signing of a statement of principles or diplomatic conference will bring instant and lasting peace." He did not mention any specific conference or statement.

RETIRING — Richard R. Witherspoon, postmaster in Washington C. H. for the past five years, will end a 35-year postal service career when he retires effective Feb. 29.

Income distribution grows more unequal

BOSTON (AP) — The distribution of income in the United States has become more unequal over the last five years, with blacks and poor whites losing ground, a Harvard University economist says.

Also, economic equity has deteriorated, Andrew F. Brimmer of the Harvard Business School said Monday.

"This is a reversal of the trends evident during the preceding decade," Brimmer told the 142nd annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in a special public lecture.

"In general," he said, "over the last five years, income has been redistributed so as to favor whites vs. blacks, the better off vs. the poor, the newer regions of the country vs. the old, and the suburbs vs. both rural areas and central cities."

During the strong expansion of the economy in the 1960s, Brimmer said, blacks, poor people and the least skilled got a somewhat larger share of total income.

"In contrast, during the last five years — under the combined impact of high inflation rates and slower economic growth — these disadvantaged groups have fallen further

Hearst questions anger Bailey

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst is off the witness stand in her bank robbery trial after steadfastly refusing to answer prosecution questions despite a judge's order, and her attorneys are focusing now on psychiatric opinions about her state of mind.

After Miss Hearst invoked 5th Amendment protection against self-incrimination 42 times in front of her jurors Monday, chief defense attorney F. Lee Bailey declared bitterly, "The damage is done."

Bailey planned today to resume questioning Dr. L.J. West, a court-appointed psychiatrist who testified Monday that a "shattered" Miss Hearst showed signs of profound fear in the weeks after her Sept. 18 capture.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. had fought against admission of the psychiatric testimony, but U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter ruled that Bailey could call to the stand three experts who have examined the 22-year-old defendant.

West was the first witness Bailey

called Monday after Miss Hearst concluded her six days of testimony by defying Carter's order to answer questions relating to a year of her life on the run.

Carter said Miss Hearst had relinquished 5th Amendment protection when she took the witness stand in her own defense and warned her that he would cite her for contempt of court if she did not answer Browning's questions. But the judge did not pursue the matter when Bailey instructed his client to remain silent.

Miss Hearst, kidnapped by the Symbionese Liberation Army in February 1974, said sympathizers of the terrorist tribe would kill her and harm her family if she testified about the year. Her testimony could link revolutionaries to crimes she may have some knowledge of.

"I refuse to answer on the grounds that it may tend to incriminate me and cause extreme danger to myself and my family," she said initially. Her remaining answers usually were simply, "I refuse to answer."

The prosecution contends that Miss

Hearst freely remained with the depleted ranks of the SLA and helped plan bank robberies in Northern California from September 1974 until her arrest a year later.

Bailey contends Miss Hearst was still a hostage, her every act committed in fear for her life, and that any testimony about what the judge calls the "blank year" could trigger further indictments against her.

Bailey was clearly angered by Carter's decision to allow the government to probe into the 12-month period, leaving his client to risk the "adverse inference" of pleading the 5th Amendment in front of her jury.

It was the first time the jurors had heard Miss Hearst refuse to answer prosecution questions, although she had invoked the 5th Amendment last week with the jury absent.

Browning played document after document before Miss Hearst and stood back as she refused to say whether she could identify them. The notebooks and papers, some in the defendant's handwriting, involved diagrams and information on a number of banks.

Brezhnev pledges detente push

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev opened the Soviet Communist party's 25th congress today with a pledge to push detente forward "with redoubled energy," but he said there are circles in the United States who oppose improvement in Soviet-American relations.

Brezhnev also attacked the Chinese Communists and said the Soviet Union would continue its aid to the leftist MPLA government in Angola as a matter of "revolutionary conscience."

His speech also made a strong pitch for nuclear disarmament, listing achievement of a strategic arms limitation treaty with the United States among the "urgent tasks" ahead.

Although peaceful coexistence is the key element of the Soviet Union's policy toward the West, Brezhnev said, "influential forces in the United States that have no stake either in improving relations with the Soviet Union or in international detente as a whole are trying to impair it."

Brezhnev's sharpest words were for China's Maoist ideology and policy which he said was "directly hostile" to the teachings of Marx and Lenin.

"Peking's frantic attempts to torpedo detente, to obstruct disarmament, to breed suspicion and hostility between states, its efforts to provoke a world war ... present a great danger for all peace-loving peoples," he declared.

"We shall continue to repulse this incendiary policy," Brezhnev told the 4,983 delegates and 103 foreign delegations in the Kremlin Palace of Congresses. But he added that good relations could be restored if the Chinese leaders "return to a Marxist-Leninist policy."

Speaking with a strong voice and looking vigorous, Brezhnev said the 24th party congress in 1971 advanced a peace program designed "to achieve a turn in international relations ... a turn from cold war to peaceful coexistence of states with different social systems, a turn from explosive tensions to detente and normal mutually beneficial cooperation."

"This policy we will continue with redoubled energy, reaching a lessening of the forces of war and the strengthening of general peace, securing the rights of the peoples for freedom, independence and social progress."

Brezhnev spoke of the "glorious victory" of the Vietnamese people, saying, "Imperialism's biggest post-World War II bid to destroy a socialist state by armed force and crush a national liberation revolution suffered failure."

Turning to Angola, an issue that has troubled Soviet-American relations, Brezhnev said the Soviet Union "has given and will be giving support to people who are struggling for their independence."

Brezhnev said the Middle East remains a dangerous area, and the Soviet Union is "ready to cooperate in all attempts aimed at a real regulation of the conflict." But he said there will be a danger of war as long as Israeli troops occupy Arab territory.

before World War II, said it was his personal policy to work closely with the employees. "I was always on the floor a couple of times a day to see if it was working the way I wanted it to."

Although Witherspoon said he hasn't encountered any "serious problems" during his postal service career, increased paperwork has provided somewhat of a headache for him. "Now it seems like everytime you turn around it seems like there's a report to be made out on something."

A native of Washington C. H., Witherspoon became a substitute clerk in April of 1941, and during World War II served in the infantry and later in the postal branch of the U. S. Army Adjutant General's office with the rank of staff sergeant from 1942 until 1946. He was appointed as a regular carrier at the local post office while in the military service, and after four years in that position he was transferred to the office appointed clerk in 1950 and became mail superintendent in October of 1963.

He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church, Burnett-Ducey VFW Post No. 4964, the Paul H. Hughes Post 25, American Legion, the Washington C. H. Eagles Lodge and the state and national postmasters organizations.

He and his wife, Ruth, have a daughter, Carol, production manager of WCMH-TV (Channel 4) in Columbus, and a son, Richard, a junior at Miami University, Oxford.

Witherspoon said, after his retirement he plans to devote more time to his hobbies of fishing, bowling and woodworking, and also plans to do more traveling with his wife.

"I plan to get a lot more fishing done and see some of this United States that we haven't seen," he said.

of federal social programs to the states.

Although Udall and Carter were acknowledged as heading the Democratic pack, both shied away from the frontrunner label. Bayh said he would have to finish among the top three, and Harris said he expected to finish at least third.

Udall and Carter campaigned in the state for more than a year and were believed to have the best organizations of any of the Democrats. Harris waged a populist campaign and was the only contender among the five not to have much support among party regulars.

All the Democratic candidates on the New Hampshire ballot, plus Jackson and Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania, appeared at a League of Women Voters forum in Boston on Monday night.

As had been the case in past joint appearances, the candidates agreed more often than they disagreed during the program, which was beamed into New Hampshire over public television.

"Maybe," quipped Harris as the tempo slowed to a crawl, "we could play the Ali-Coopman fight for the last 30 minutes." His reference was to the heavyweight fight between Muhammad Ali and Jean-Pierre Coopman last week.

FBI telephone data snared innocents

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI collected information on thousands of persons who had no involvement in militant activities simply because they called or received calls from telephone numbers once used by alleged extremists or subversives, congressional auditors say.

The FBI also maintained a super-secret computerized "stop index" containing names of nearly 4,300 alleged subversives and extremists, the General Accounting Office said.

The disclosures were contained in the GAO's final report on its 20-month-long investigation of the FBI's domestic intelligence operations. The report was made public Monday.

Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats, head of the GAO, was scheduled to present the findings to a House Judiciary subcommittee today.

The report said the FBI in 1969 created a computerized telephone number file "for use in criminal investigations" but used it in domestic intelligence operations from February 1971 to February 1975.

Under the system, the FBI maintained a computer list of phone numbers used by persons under investigation for militant activities.

The FBI then scanned telephone company records for the phone numbers of persons who called or received

Report from citizens study committee

Why City Council can't rob Peter to pay Paul (anymore)

The Citizens Study Committee has been trying in a series of articles to present to the residents of Washington C. H. clear and factual information about the financial picture of the city. There is a question that needs to be asked. How did the present financial troubles arise?

Basically, the answer is that essential services have been under-funded. The city has not raised enough in local taxes for several years to actually support the services residents demand from the city. To understand this, residents need to remember that the city of Washington C. H. has a tax duplicate of about $40,000,000. That means that a one-mill levy will raise about $40,000 per year. Since the Washington C. H. Police Department budget is $282,518, it would take seven mills if the city supported the police by local property tax revenue. It would take five mills to support the Washington C. H. Fire Department. It would take seven mills for the City Offices.

Last year the voters turned down a one-mill levy for police, a one mill levy for the general fund and three-tenths of a mill for the cemetery. That totals $92,000 of revenue. However, even that much money would not have yielded a balanced budget in 1976 if the levies had been approved. In other words, even the levies that the residents of Washington C. H. have been paying have not been sufficient to pay for necessary services.

The city has had this kind of under-funding problem for many years. If the levies had been approved last year, the city probably would have limped through 1976 as it has in the past. But when both the levies and the income tax were voted down, the past problems caught up in a hurry.

There are three reasons why the city was able until now to continue functioning even though services are under-funded. First, the city gets money in the form of revenue sharing from the federal government. It gets money from the state sales tax. It gets money from people who pay fines and so on. Secondly, Washington C. H. City Council has responded to impending financial crisis in the past by voting an income tax. Although it was repealed twice, it did bring in enough money to keep things going. Third, City Council transferred money from other funds into the general fund. Money was spent from the sewer fund and the street fund, to name only two, for general fund purposes.

These ways of financing the city have now caught up. For example, with the defeat of the levies last November also will go a substantial part of the federal revenue sharing. Revenue sharing is based upon how much a local community raises in its own taxes. But most important of all, the city just doesn't have any more money to transfer from other funds to keep things going. Peter has been robbed to pay Paul for so long that Peter just doesn't have any more money to give.

The present situation is more complicated than what has been said so far. There is another 1.70 mills that the citizens of Washington C. H. pay. It is the "inside millage." This millage can be put on without a vote by the residents. Due to the fact that the city has many bonds outstanding and it is necessary that provision be made for paying these bonds, the Fayette County Budget Commission ruled that all the inside millage had to go for bond retirement. Therefore, the city cannot have the revenue for general fund purposes that would normally come from this source. There is another debt problem. Parking Lot No. 2 was purchased for $93,000 in 1974. Since that time no payment has been made on the principle. The interest has been paid but the city still owes as much as it did in the beginning although the city has this asset. The money hasn't been available to pay off the debt.

All of this left City Council in a difficult position. Council members really have only three choices. First, they can cut services and personnel to take up the slack. Second, they can cut some and raise some additional revenue. Third, they can raise enough revenue to keep things going. If Council decides to raise revenue, there are two ways to do it. Council can put levies on the ballot or it can vote an income tax. They have no other choices. A property tax, if approved, would not help at all in 1976 because the money from it wouldn't come in until 1977. In order to raise money in 1976, an income tax is the only way to do it. The question is, in the short run, do we want our city services cut in 1976 or do we want to pay an income tax? The question in the long run is, what kind of city do we want?

YOU BORN TODAY are like most Pisceans, extremely idealistic, intuitive and endowed with outstanding artistry and creativity. All this, of course, if living up to your innate standards and profiting by your star-given assets. The under-developed Piscean, on the other hand, can be given to self-indulgence, excesses and a complete indifference to the many talents which COULD bring him great success and happiness. Your life's ambition, therefore, should be, not only to master yourself but to master those talents which have been given to you. And you have so many fields from which to choose! Music, painting, writing, for instance. You also have good technical and mechanical ability; may, therefore, choose a career along these lines and pursue one of the arts avocationally. In any event, do not waste what could be truly an outstanding life.

Gun control bills pondered

By TOM DIEMER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three gun control bills will be considered this week by a House committee in a last gasp attempt to pass the controversial legislation during the current session.

In the present versions, none of the three bills would deal with handgun registration or the outlawing of the cheap, poorly made pistols, often referred to as "Saturday night specials."

However, Rep. Michael G. Oxley, R-82 Findlay, sponsor of a bill that would require a "cooling off" period before the purchase of a handgun, plans to offer an amendment that would ban the sale of some cheap firearms.

"They're just so replete in major cities," said the former F.B.I. agent. "They're not used for anything except killing some one."

House Judiciary Chairman Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, who has set a Thursday panel vote on all three measures, opposes Oxley's amendment because of the way it defines "Saturday night specials."

The legislative package before the committee would set mandatory 2 to 5 years prison terms for gun-related offenses, permit juveniles to be tried as adults on charges involving a gun, require registration of firearms dealers and require a five-day waiting period before buying a gun.

In addition to Oxley, the sponsors are Reps. Troy Lee James, D-9 Cleveland, and like Thompson, D-13 Cleveland.

Oxley's prospective amendment would define a "Saturday night special" as a handgun costing no more than $25, carrying a barrel of three inches or less, a caliber of 32 or less, and capable of being melted at 800 degrees fahrenheit.

Lehman, a persistent advocate of tough gun control legislation, says Oxley's definition is too narrow to adequately address the problem. "It's cosmetic," he said.

The Cleveland-area attorney cited the price ceiling as the most objectionable feature in the Oxley plan.

"Under no circumstances would I vote in favor of something that set a price because it would just drive the market price above the standard set in the bill," he said.

Lehman estimates that anywhere from a million to 1.5 million of the cheap handguns are already in the hands of Ohioans. And under current law, most law-abiding citizens are entitled to carry handguns, even if the weapons are concealed.

Tops and Bottoms rate high in reader survey

DEAR READERS: Yesterday, I published the first part of the results of my reader survey on what men first notice about women. (Bosoms were way out in front, with figures including legs and fannies-coming in second and eyes, third.

Here are the remaining results: Twenty per cent of the men who wrote in notice a woman's clothes and grooming first. In this category was included "how she smells." From Arizona: "If she looks attractive and seems interested in me, I get close enough to get a whiff of her. If she doesn't smell 'clean', I move on. Many Canadian men said, 'Heavenly perfumed women lose me!'"

A woman's attire was noticed by more men from eastern states: Pennsylvania, Maryland, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire.

More Southern gentlemen on the other hand, first notice a woman's complexion. (From New Orleans, one man wrote: "I don't like to see women with a lot of makeup. The less paint and varnish, the better I like her.")

Mail from men in every state (but not in great numbers mentioned that they notice a woman's hair first. ("Blondes catch my eye first," a Sarasota, Fla. man wrote, "but most blondes aren't natural, and I prefer nature's color.") Many men said they prefer longer hair on women and hair-dos that look natural—"the kind a man can run his fingers through," wrote a Virginia male who took his own survey at a poker club.

Next on the list of things noticed first by men came "teeth and smile." (A Denver man wrote, "I notice a woman's teeth first because I'm a dentist.")

I observed that more men from small towns notice a woman's teeth and smile than do those from the big cities. From Sioux City, Iowa, one girl-watcher wrote, "If a woman has a smile on her face, I am attracted to her like a magnet. I don't mean a phony, put-on smile; I mean one that comes from within and makes her eyes shine and her lips turn up."

Of the 32 men who stated that they noticed a woman's "voice" first, 21 were from Canada!

More than 100 men wrote that they notice a woman's jewelry first because, "I'm in the jewelry business," or a woman's shoes, because "I'm in the shoe business." Many plastic surgeons wrote that because of their professions, they notice whether or not a woman had plastic surgery. Ditto for dentists, who automatically notice a woman's teeth first. Men in fashion noted that they notice a woman's apparel first. Physicians admitted they notice if a woman has a "healthy" appearance.

From Rome, Italy: "Her posture how she carries herself and how she moves. Is she graceful or clumsy? Does she have confidence and poise? If not, she probably lacks experience and sophistication."

One man wrote from Missoula, Mont. "I'm only 5 foot 4, so the first thing I notice about a girl is whether she is taller than I am."

Next week I'll disclose the results of the survey on what women notice first in men.

Today is Tuesday, Feb. 24, the 55th day of 1976. There are 311 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, American troops liberated the Philippine capital of Manila from Japanese occupation during World War II.

On this date: In 1761, James Otis of Massachusetts protested against the English system of search and seizure, declaring: "A man's house is his castle."

In 1863, Arizona was organized as a territory.

In 1868, impeachment proceedings against President Andrew Johnson were begun in Congress.

In 1903, the United States acquired a naval station on Cuba's Guantanamo Bay.

In 1946, Juan Peron was elected president of Argentina.

In 1970, 30 persons were killed in an avalanche at Reckingen in southwestern Switzerland.

Ten years ago: President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana was deposed by a military coup while out of the country, en route to Communist China.

Five years ago: The government of Algeria nationalized most of the French oil interests in that country.

One year ago: Former Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin died at the age of 79.

Today's birthday: Jamaican political leader Sir Alexander Bustamante is 92 years old.

Thought for today: Bad officials are elected by good citizens who do not vote — George Jean Nathan, American writer, 1882-1958.

Bicentennial footnote: Two-hundred years ago today, a British agent in Spain reported to the London government that American ships had arrived and probably were seeking gunpowder and other war supplies, possibly to be supplied by the Dutch and transferred from ship to ship while at sea.

After jurors return guilty verdict

Drug defendant sentenced

After an hour-and-a-half of deliberations Monday, a Fayette County jury returned a guilty verdict in Fayette County Common Pleas Court against a Washington C. H. man charged with possession of a bulk amount of marijuana.

Fayette County Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman sentenced the defendant, Robert M. George, 28, of 536 Comfort Lane, to a prison term of 18 months to five years. He will be transported to the Chillicothe Correctional Institute for incarceration.

Fayette County Sheriff's Sgt. William R. Crooks and Deputy Donald Cox had described to the jury how they discovered more than a pound of marijuana under George's control November 30, 1975.

The deputies had warrants for his arrest on bad check charges when they observed the defendant in an automobile with a young Washington C. H. man. They stopped the vehicle to serve George with the warrants and noticed weapons and a paper bag on the car's floorboards and back seat.

Liquor bill now law

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has permitted a bill to become law to allow resort areas to sell liquor by the glass on Sunday.

Rhodes let a 10-day period pass without his signature, meaning the legislation will automatically be enacted in 90 days on May 24.

The new law will apply to resorts which derive at least half of their business from food sales and are located in areas where Sunday sales have been approved by local election. These establishments, if they already have the D-7 120 days resort season liquor permit, can seek a license to sell liquor on Sunday between 1 p.m. and midnight.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Frederick H. Deering, D-84 Monroeville, received final legislative approval on Feb. 3.

Rhodes offered no explanation for his action.

Car parts theft probed

Washington C. H. police officers investigated a reported $400 theft, arrested a Wilmington man for check fraud, and received a dog bite complaint Monday.

Two 12-inch wheels and two tires valued at $400 belonging to Dennis Clay, of 906 N. North St., were reported stolen from his unlocked garage sometime after Saturday afternoon.

Wayne Miracle, 27, of Wilmington was arrested for check fraud stemming from a $32.32 check he allegedly passed at the K-Mart department store last December.

Robin S. Wilt, 10, of 332 N. Main St., told police officers that while he was waiting for a school bus around 9 a.m. Monday he was bitten by a dog. He was treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital. Police officers located the owner of the dog, and requested that it be kept confined for 10 days.

Vocal quartet performs

The Court House Company, a vocal quartet, entertained at the Terrace Lounge Monday during the Washington C. H. Kiwanis Club ladies night meeting.

Anita Bruitt, Paula Campbell, Jeff Sheridan and Gary Browning sang a variety of songs to the accompaniment of Elaine Stuckey.

The vocal group performed a number of selections from musical shows including "Carousel," "Showboat," "Cinderella," and the "Wizard of Oz." Their program was closed with three patriotic pieces, "Mother Country," "A Peace and Love Medley," and a "Prayer for Peace."

A large number of Kiwanis Club members and their wives attended the dinner program, and the group was very well received.

In addition to the group selections, each of the four vocalists performed solo pieces, and one Kiwanis Club member stated that "Washington C. H. can truly be proud of the Court House Company."

Attending as guests of the club were Richard Huebner, an official of Calmar plastics, from Los Angeles, Calif., and Dwight L. Crum, area 4-H agent from Sinking Springs.

Next week's meeting will feature Hank Shaffer, director of the Washington C. H. Community Education program. He will be the guest speaker.

to search the vehicle and found six bags of marijuana in the car in addition to a rifle and lengths of chain. Another 25 bags of marijuana were found in the trunk.

Both the driver of the auto, George E. Vinion Jr., 18, of 722 Peabody Ave., and George were arrested for possession of more than 200 grams of the hallucinogen. The total weight of the drug was more than a pound.

The trial opened Monday morning with the seating of jurors. The jury was seated at 11:30 a.m. and the attorneys gave their opening statements. Assistant county prosecuting attorney John H. Roszmann represented the state while Robert L. Brubaker served as defense counselor.

Testimony in the case concluded in early afternoon, and the jury retired for deliberations at 3:40 p.m. They returned with a verdict at 5:10 p.m.

Seated on the jury were Max E. Grim, foreman, Richard Leslie, Jeannette Kearney, William F. Jones, Coyt A. Stookey, Jeannie Cummings, Wileen Stackhouse, Beatrice Roberts, Joe Giebelhouse, Dorothy Davis, Elizabeth Pentzer and William Dunn. Vinion, who faced the same charge, had pleaded guilty earlier and received a slightly milder sentence.

ANOTHER JURY trial was slated to begin in Common Pleas Court Tuesday morning, but the defendant pleaded guilty and jurors were notified that they did not have to appear.

Danny D. Daugherty, 23, of Bainbridge, pleaded guilty to grand theft and was sentenced to a term of six months to five years in jail.

While being questioned by city police in connection with the passing of altered United States currency at local taverns, Daugherty allegedly ate portions of the bills which had been held by the police as evidence. He was then charged with tampering with evidence, an even more serious charge than the passing of the bills themselves.

In negotiations, Roszmann agreed to drop the evidence tampering charge in exchange for a guilty plea to the original theft count. Daugherty agreed. Because he had a prior theft conviction, the defendant was sentenced under a felony statute rather than a misdemeanor.

He had taken one-dollar bills and affixed the corners from $20 bills over the "1." Then he entered dimly lit taverns and passed the bills as $20 notes. He purchased small items and left the establishments with the change.

Gloria Swanson seeks tax trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Actress Gloria Swanson has asked for a jury trial before the U.S. Tax Court to decide the validity of an Internal Revenue Service claim that she owes $14,000 on her 1969-70 taxes.

However, the court has never had a jury trial in its 52-year history, according to court clerk Charles S. Cassaza.

Miss Swanson's lawyer says she needs a jury because she is fighting "bureaucratic opposition deliberately designed and relentlessly pursued against her."

Burton, Taylor splitting again

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor, remarried last year after a divorce, reportedly have agreed to separate again.

The hint of new trouble in the Burton marriage arose when it was learned that a party for Miss Taylor's 44th birthday, arranged for next Friday by producer Alexander Cohen, had been canceled.

"I'm sure that under the circumstances I wouldn't want to be having a party," Miss Taylor was quoted as telling Cohen by telephone early Monday.

Schorr defends leaking report

NEW YORK (AP) — Television newsman Daniel Schorr, suspended by CBS for leaking a secret House intelligence report, says he believes the central question in any legal battle he may face remains the public's right to know.

"Experience has taught that it is not possible to work as a reporter while personally involved in a controversy over reporters' rights, and I accept that reality," Schorr said Monday. A CBS correspondent for 23 years, he has maintained that he "could not be responsible for suppressing the report."

The House Ethics Committee was scheduled to meet today to consider finding Schorr in contempt of Congress. The House voted 269 to 115 on Thursday to investigate circumstances of the leak of the report.

John Scali fights acute bronchitis

PEKING (AP) — John Scali, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, has been hospitalized in Peking with acute bronchitis, but his condition is not considered serious.

Scali, 57, is a representative of the American Broadcasting Corp. in the press corps covering former President Nixon's visit to China.

On Sunday evening he developed a fever and chest pains, causing concern because he underwent open heart surgery in 1973. His ailment was at first diagnosed as pneumonia, but later this was changed to acute bronchitis.

Remap board meet eyes court action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Democrats have the next move in an unfolding Statehouse drama which Gov. James A. Rhodes hopes will conclude with the return to power of Republicans in the General Assembly.

Rhodes convened the state Apportionment Board Monday to lay the groundwork for a legal effort to redraw Senate and House district lines. Board members voted 3-0 to request that Atty. Gen. William J. Brown, a Democrat, appoint special counsel to represent them in federal court.

They took the action without the two Democratic members of the board, Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson, and Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, who failed to show for the onehour session.

Before making any changes in the legislative map, Rhodes must get permission from a federal judge in Cleveland who in 1973 issued a permanent restraining order against any tampering with the current apportionment plan.

The Senate, which returned Monday night from weekend recess, a day ahead of the House, received new legislation from Sen. Donald J. Pease, D-13 Oberlin, to establish a nonpartisan apportionment board from which legislators would be excluded.

He said his legislation—one bill and a constitutional amendment—was not a reaction to Rhodes' efforts. "I've been working on this for more than a year." His proposal, he said, "would take party politics out of the process by which state legislative and congressional district boundary lines are drawn."

Republicans on Rhodes' realigned apportionment board want the attorney general to name a special counsel to ask U.S. District Court Judge Frank Battisti, a Democrat, to vacate or modify his order.

Brown was out of town Monday, but a spokesman said a decision would be made before the board's next meeting March 1.

If Brown refuses to act, the Republicans said they would force his hand with a mandamus action in the Ohio Supreme Court "to compel the appointment."

One card of special interest was received from President and Mrs. Gerald Ford. Mr. Thompson has many friends in the Washington C. H. area.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Grace of Wellston, came to present Mr. Thompson with a signed proclamation for his contributions to society over the years. Mr. Grace is a member of the Ohio Commission on Aging, and represented Ohio Governor Rhodes.

Weekend guests were Mr. Thompson's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Barker and sons Doug and Dan of Hyattsville, Maryland.

Mac Dews Jr. of this city televised the interview by Kenneth Craig with Mr. Thompson and his family in the background, as well as Mrs. Vivian Cryder, who has been his housekeeper for many years. His wife, Mrs. Ninette Morton Thompson, died in 1958 and Mr. Thompson lived alone for two years, but in 1960 he was fortunate in securing Mrs. Cryder as his housekeeper. Pictures of the group were taken, as well as the lovely refreshment table, where the patriotic colors of red, white and blue were used in the lovely floral centerpiece of carnations and mums.

Mrs. Clyde Payton made a beautiful white sheet cake, frosted in white and decorated with a crown, inscribed "King for a Day." Another neighbor Mrs. Mildred Eyre, asked Mrs. Lavina Barrett to bake a special cake, which was a large white cake with round dome in center, frosted in white and trimmed in red and blue, resembling the State Capitol building. The party favors were red and white flags atop Valentine gumdrops, and the cake was served with a tiny American flag thereon. Coffee was served from a silver service, red fruit punch and nuts also graced the table. Several other lovely cakes were given from friends and relatives and used during the afternoon. White napkins, with red and blue decor inscribed with "Happy Birthday Curtis W. Thompson 1876-1976" further carried out the patriotic Bicentennial theme.

Mrs. Cryder was assisted by the Parker family, Mrs. Rosalie Morgan, Loretta Timmons, Mrs. Payton, Mrs. Leonard Watts, Mrs. Sarah Coburn, Mrs. Eyre and Mrs. Ethel Mae Haines throughout the afternoon in serving the many guests.

Mr. and Mrs. George Trimmer and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Craig were included in the guest list. Mr. Trimmer and Mr. Craig being two of his longtime checkers partners. Mr. Craig assisted in the interview and Mr. Trimmer was included in the family pictures taken during the interview.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Last Tuesday, "M-A-S-H" had an unusual, powerful show. It contrasted newsreel footage of home-front frivolities during the Korean War with scenes of harried M-A-S-H medics coping with a flood of casualties right after Chinese troops entered the war.

Tonight, the CBS series takes another unusual turn with a fine, thoughtful episode done as a TV reporter's documentary on the views and attitudes of the troops manning M-A-S-H.

Clete Roberts, a Los Angeles newscaster and a former Korean War reporter, portrays the visiting newsmen in this episode, filmed in black and white. Parts of the dialogue were improvised by the actors.

It's a good character study, the responses of the characters ranging from sarcastic to gentle, from pompous to compassionate. The bulk of the questions are addressed to Hawkeye, Maj. Burns, Col. Potter and Radar.

Hawkeye (Alan Alda) seems totally disgusted, occasionally self-pitying. Burns (Larry Linville) is, as usual, a sappy superhawk. Radar (Gary Burghoff) remains his usual gentle, unconsciously funny self, while Col. Potter (Harry Morgan) speaks with the blunt realism, tolerance and understanding of a grizzled Army regular on his third war.

Hawkeye is asked if he sees anything good coming out of the Korean War: "Yeah, me. Alive." Col. Potter: "Not a damn thing." Maj. Burns: "Korea will become a shining example of the American policy of benign military intervention."

When asked about boredom, Cpl. Klinger (Jamie Farr), who isn't in drag for a change, grumbles about training films warning against venereal disease: "They say, 'Don't let this happen to you.' I'd like to have it happen to me, to break up the boredom."

Potter, on whether the war will produce any benefits for medicine: "Oh, there are some things that get a practical trying out here that maybe wouldn't in the same speed back home."

"But when you counterbalance that with the frightful expense, the frightful destruction and loss of life, I don't think it's an equal balance."

Hawkeye on what he'll do if the war ever ends: "I'd like to take six or seven months and become unconscious. Just sleep ... then I'd like to go to Europe and sleep there for a year."

Nobody will sleep through this show, the final first-run episode of "M-A-S-H" this season. Cheers to the producers of the series for having the guts to offer the unconventional and doing it twice in two weeks.

Group fights to preserve historic site

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The President's Advisory Council on Historic Preservation has scheduled a meeting Feb. 27 concerning a dispute between Kentucky historical preservationists and the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. over the site of a proposed power plant.

The council has asked all parties to attend the meeting at the Louisville office of the Army Corps of Engineers. CG&E wants to build a 1,700-acre power plant complex on the site of Winfield Cottage near Platt's Landing on the Ohio River.

The Kentucky Heritage Commission says the 14-room house, built in 1817, is probably the last river stop still standing that served the pioneer flatboat trade after the Revolutionary War.

A state brochure says the house is the birthplace of Maj. Gen. Edward Richard Spraggs Canby, who accepted surrender of the last Confederate troops at Citronella, Ala., in May 1865.

Both sides in the dispute say possible options in the controversy include demolition of the house or moving it to another site.

Company officials say they have reached agreement on preservation of two nearby sites said to be rich in early Indian archeology.

Unbeaten Rutgers continues assault on Hoosiers top spot

By The Associated Press
Rutgers remains unbeaten and continues its climb up the college basketball ladder, this week reaching the No. 3 rung.
Mighty Indiana, which raised its record to 24-0 by beating Big Ten rival Iowa 101-81 Monday night, retained the top spot in The Associated Press' weekly poll, based on games through Sunday. The Hoosiers received 55 of 59 first place votes and 1,170 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Purdue 74-71 and Minnesota 76-64.
Marquette, 22-1, held onto the second spot in the poll, announced Monday, with two first-place votes and 1,000 points.
Next came Rutgers, fourth a week ago. The Scarlet Knights, 23-0, received one first-place ballot and 821 points.
Dropping one notch was North Carolina, 22-2 after a pair of two-point victories over Miami and Virginia last week.
But the big losers in this week's poll were UCLA and Maryland. The Bruins, who had their 98-game home winning streak snapped by Oregon 65-45 Saturday, fell from fifth to ninth place, while Maryland, a two-point loser to Atlantic Coast Conference foe Duke, dropped from seventh to 10th.

Nevada-Las Vegas, 25-1, which scored an NCAA-record 164 points in beating Hawaii-Hilo Thursday, move up one spot to fifth place with 691 points. Notre Dame, 20-4, also climbed one place to sixth with 507 points.
Alabama and Washington both climbed three places, the Crimson Tide landing in seventh with 446 points and the Huskies taking eighth with 394.
Then came UCLA with 371 points — the Bruins were completely overlooked on five of the ballots — and Maryland with 355.
Tennessee, beaten by Auburn in overtime, fell from ninth to 11th. The Vols were followed by Missouri, Michigan, St. John's, North Carolina State, Western Michigan, Oregon, Cincinnati, Centenary and Texas A&M.
Oregon and Texas A&M were the only newcomers to the list. They replaced Louisville and Virginia Tech, both of whom were beaten last week.

Spring training delayed

Baseball rift widens

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The rift between the owners and players seems so wide that when the parties meet in Philadelphia on Wednesday they may have to talk from opposite sides of the street.

The city of brotherly love will be an ironic setting for round 21 of the sparring session between the owners' Player Relations Committee and the major league baseball players association after the owners announced on Monday they were delaying the start of spring training.

In explaining the owners' action that stalled spring training and could throw opening day back a couple of weeks, Lee MacPhail, committee member and president of the American League, said: "The idea of playing baseball and negotiating at the same time is not desirable."

Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, responded by saying that keeping the camps closed was counterproductive. "Baseball may be the first industry which, un-threatened by its employees, shuts itself down," he said.

The rites of spring training normally begin March 1, with pitchers and catchers arriving a week earlier.

The owners blame the players for the stalled negotiations which they say forced the stalled spring training.

"The major difference that blocks agreement is the insistence of the association for a reserve system that would be wholly unworkable," said MacPhail and National League President Chub Feeney in a joint statement.

The players say they merely are asking for the rights contained in their individual contracts.

Arbitrator Peter Seitz ruled last December that the renewal clause was structured so the players could play one season beyond their contractual commitment and then become free agents. Federal Judge John W. Oliver agreed with Seitz, so the owners have moved on to the third base umpire, seeking to have a federal appeals court panel overturn Seitz' call.

The three-judge tribunal has taken the matter under advisement.

Reached in Houston, where he is informing players in the area of the status of the negotiations, Miller said the owners were distorting the facts and asking the players to surrender rights that are legally theirs.

"The dispute has been caused by the owners' demand that we retroactively and, in our view illegally, strip the players of rights they now have in their individual player contracts," Miller said.

The longer the delay, the larger the prospect of not beginning the season on time April 8, regardless of whether there is a new labor contract.

"We're going to delay spring training until there is an agreement or sufficient progress to justify going forward," Gaherin said.

Were the owners willing to jeopardize the regular season?

"If we have to," MacPhail said, adding that the owners were prepared to wait "as long as it takes to get an agreement."

There is an exhibition game scheduled for March 9, which now is 13 days away. The game apparently is nearing cancellation.

Top-ranked prep coaches disagree on No. 1 pressure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The coaches of The Associated Press' basketball poll champions disagree over the pressure surrounding their No. 1 status going into Ohio scholastic tournaments.

Don Everett of Class AAA titleholder Canton McKinley and Bob Arnzen of Delphos St. John, the Class AA winner, think their regular titles serve as a plus.

Not so, says Charlie Huggins, the wily mentor of Gnadenhutten Indian

Valley South, the Class A ruler.

"I don't think it can help you along the tournament trail," said Huggins.

"It gets other teams sky high for you."

Huggins is the voice of experience. His Rebels have been AP kings three of the last five seasons, but have gone all the way to the state tournament title just once.

Everett, 57, a McKinley assistant mentor 25 seasons until this year, downplays the fact that only nine of 46 poll champions have followed with state tournament crowns.

"In spite of that," said Everett, "I'm a firm believer until you're beaten, you're hard to beat. I think it's a plus."

Said Arnzen, who coached St. John to its first-ever unbeaten regular season: "It's a plus. I always prefer being up there and letting the other teams come to us."

Everett took over McKinley's head job when Bob Rupert left abruptly for a coaching position in Saudi Arabia. "We've got better depth and better balance than last season," he said proudly.

That's a big statement when you consider the Bulldogs were 17-1 last year before going down the tournament trail to the state semifinals. However, four regulars are back from that power.

All five Bulldog starters average in double figures, led by 6-foot-1½ guard Elmer Jackson's 17.5 mark.

"I never figured we ever would have an undefeated team with the teams we play," said Arnzen, who has a 395-182 record in 26 Delphos seasons. The Blue Jays played nine Class AAA foes this winter.

The quality of a building depends on the quality of the people who build it.

On paper, any commercial or industrial building looks good. But, you're not going to run your operation on paper. So, no matter how good your building looks on the blueprints, its ultimate quality rests in the hands of the people who build it for you.

We've been in the building business long enough to know that without good people, you're not going to get too many good customers. That's why our people, all of them, are quality construction professionals. Which makes it easy for them to work well together. To work well for you and with you.

Because of our people, we can do the entire job for you, from site location to landscaping. Or any part of it. As much or as little as you want us to. Either way, you're assured of quality, professional workmanship. Efficient workmanship that gets you under roof faster, and saves you unnecessary construction delays and dollars in the process.

When you decide to build a quality building, call us. We'll put our quality people to work for you.

Couple Fights Over Who Uses Family Car Least

MADERA, Calif. (AP) — Instead of fighting over who gets to drive the family car, Mike and Donna Erwin compete to see who can go longest without driving it.

And even though Mike lives 30 miles from his engineering job in Fresno, the family car often sits idle for days as he hops on a 10-speed racing bicycle each morning and heads for work.

"I leave home each morning at 6 o'clock," he said. "When I get to Fresno, I take a shower at the YMCA and I'm at my desk by 8. I kind of plan my day as I'm riding to work."

He tools along rural roads through this San Joaquin Valley vineyard country, then down old Highway 99, finishing up on heavily traveled streets.

"I have to be an extremely defensive rider," said the 34-year-old Erwin. "Many times people in cars just don't see me. I have to watch their faces and do a lot of yelling."

Weekday rides to work keep Erwin in shape for weekend racing. Two afternoons a week, he and other cycling enthusiasts detour by way of the Sierra Nevada foothill town of Auberry to get more exercise before pedaling home. Occasionally, he rides the bike between engineering jobs.

"I try to ride between 400 and 500 miles every week," he said. "I'm on my bike about 20 to 25 hours a week."

For emergencies, Erwin carries a spare tire and pump. He wears special arm and leg warmers during cold weather and has designed a mask and tube apparatus to preheat his air intake so he won't get respiratory problems from breathing frosty winter air.

Donna Erwin also rides her bike three miles to work at Madera Community Hospital, and sons Don, 10, and Kevin, 9, pedal any place they need to go. Tracy, 5, is too young to ride on her own, so on family outings she rides in a special buggy pulled by Erwin's bike.

Erwin said riding saved at least $20 a month in gasoline costs plus maintenance bills. More important, he feels it protects the environment while improving the family's health.

"Since I've started riding a bike, I feel a lot better," Erwin said. "It helps me relax."

Erwin, who began his long commute six months ago, contends "there really are no excuses for not riding a bicycle."

He offers these tips for neophyte cyclists:

"Start slow. Do some riding every evening. Little by little your capabilities will increase. You'll be amazed at what you can do in a month or two."

22 LINES WARN OF FLASH FLOODS
HONOLULU (AP) — Can a telephone call outrace a surging, destructive flash flood? Yes. "Hawaii has recorded an average of five serious flash floods a year since 1965," says Edward M. Carlstead, meteorologist in charge of the National Weather Service's office here.

The Hawaiian Telephone Co. provides 22 special telephone lines to remote rain gauges in the island chain to gather detailed reports on rainfall for the Weather Service. Timely, accurate readings provide warnings of possible dangerous flash floods.

FLYING HOURS UP, ACCIDENTS DOWN.
LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (AP) — American pilots are flying longer and farther these days but with fewer accidents, reports Piper Aircraft Corp. here. While the number of hours flown by general aviation aircraft — all business and pleasure planes, not commercial airliners — has increased nearly 100 per cent in the last 10 years, the number of fatal accidents per 100,000 flight hours decreased by 16 per cent.

Airplane miles traveled were also up by 78 per cent, and fatal accidents per million miles down by 8 per cent.

Handling Reactions to Drugs

Reactions to drugs rightfully concern a great many people. Many of my readers write various questions indicating their concern about unusual drug responses.

QUESTION: Are all people sensitive to one drug or another?

ANSWER: Most people are not sensitive, or allergic, to drugs. Yet, even in the absence of a known allergic condition, it is possible to have a sudden, unexpected or unusual reaction to a particular drug.

It is virtually impossible to tell in advance if a patient will react peculiarly to a new drug. It is for this very reason that all patients should be told exactly what a newly prescribed drug is expected to do.

They should also be told that if any unusual side effects occur, the drug should be stopped immediately and not resumed without the doctor's specific direction.

QUESTION: Can a person become sensitive to a drug that he has previously taken without any noticeable side reaction?

ANSWER: This can, and often does, occur. Allergic responses are part of an intricate body mechanism.

When one has taken a drug for a long period of time the expected benefits of the drug are known and it is easier to detect an unusual response. Here, too, the drug should be discontinued and consultation with the physician is essential in order to avoid distressing side reactions. QUESTION: What symptoms indicate an unusual drug reaction?

ANSWER: Skin hives and welts, rashes, itching, watery running of the nose, swelling of the eyes are only a few of the reactions that may follow increased sensitivity to a drug.

QUESTION: Once a person has had a severe reaction to a particular drug will he always be sensitive to it?

ANSWER: Usually this is true. Once a person is known to be sensitive to a drug or antibiotic it is wise to avoid its use, unless there is no available substitute.

QUESTION: What is the treatment for a very severe side reaction to a drug?

ANSWER: Discontinuation of the drug, of course. Antihistamine drugs, cortisone and ACTH, given by the doctor, can control severe drug reactions.

Many people tend to forget their previous reactions to some drugs. It is wise to keep a record of unusual drug responses. In addition, the present physician should be told that there has been a history of unusual reaction to a particular drug.

The bidding:

South West North East
6♥ Pass 3♥ Pass

Opening lead - ten of clubs.

It is a basic principle of bridge that when a contract can be made only if the opponents' cards are divided in a certain way, declarer should assume that that distribution exists. Here is a sample of how the principle works.

West leads a club and, when dummy appears, declarer sees that the slam essentially depends on whether or not he can avoid losing a trump trick. There is no good reason not to tackle trumps at once, so South wins the club with the ace, plays a low heart to the ace and a heart back. East showing out, South takes the king and must now solve the problem of how to avoid losing both a trump and a spade.

The task looks impossible, but if South exercises that good old college spirit, he can overcome the 3-1 trump division. He plays a club to the king, ruffs a club, then cashes the A-K of spades and his three diamond tricks.

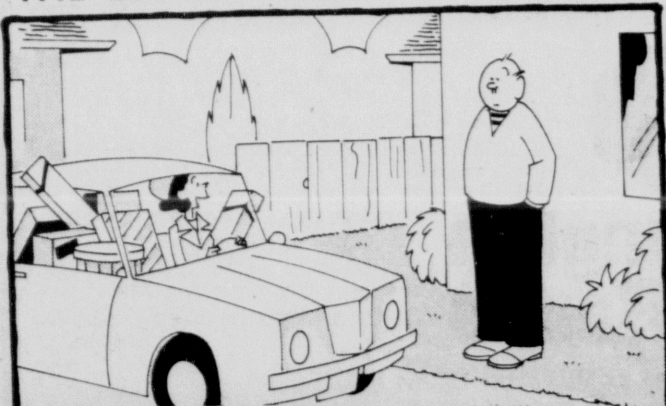

All this back and forth movement is geared to the hope of finding West with a singleton or doubleton spade, in which case the slam can be made. As it happens, this hope materializes - because the situation after the first ten tricks have been played is:

North

East

South

Declarer leads a trump at this point, putting West on lead, and South's spade loser vanishes into thin air - whatever West returns.

Clear skies favor much of nation

By The Associated Press
As the most of the country experiences clear winter weather, the Pacific Northwest and the Rocky Mountains braced for a day of rain showers and snow flurries.

Back East in New Hampshire, early morning primary voters found temperatures of zero to ten above, with some snow expected in the northern portion of the state.

The National Weather Service said scattered showers, with snow in some of the higher elevations, will occur from the central and south Pacific Coast into the northern and central Rockies.

Some light snow or flurries was in store in the extreme northern parts of New York and New England.

Elsewhere skies were expected to be clear or partly cloudy. Temperatures were to be a little cooler from the northern and central Rockies into California but will continue unseasonably warm in the Plains.

Unseasonably mild temperatures were in effect from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic Coast.

Temperatures overnight ranged from 6 at Houlton, Maine, to 69 at Miami, Fla.

Only problem was: how would you raise $16 million?

Well, thanks to people taking stock in America, that problem was no problem. The government simply offered 20-year, six-percent Treasury Notes to the public.

The response was overwhelming.

Well, today's U.S. Savings Bonds are even more attractive. A full 6% at only 5 years' maturity.

New U.S. Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. Did you ever read Kodak's HERE's HOW books? Here are eight of the little Kodak Photo Information Books that are just packed with some of the best articles by some of the top people in photographic work. Take, for example, Kinsley's article on BAD WEATHER PICTURES in HERE's HOW (the first of the series). This boy really knows how to get good pix in bad weather. And on page 16 in THE FOURTH HERE'S HOW begins an article by John W. McFarlane on HOW TO PHOTOGRAPH ANTIQUE CARS. This boy knows his antique cars and he's a top photographer. All eight are, in fact, packed with good stuff, and the first six are also bound together into a hard-back book that should be in your photo library.

In CKFN class last week we kicked around the idea of what should be included in your gadget bag on a vacation trip. There were as many ideas as there were people there, but there was one point upon which there was complete agreement: a polarizing filter is a must. In my opinion there is no one item that will improve your scenic color shots more than a properly oriented polarizing filter. That's something you might think about.

She was taken to Fayette County Memorial Hospital, and is listed in "fair" condition. A request has been made by Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. ## Prayer breakfast draws 38 persons

"Take Time to Love" was the topic used by the Rev. Charles J. Richmond during the meditation time for the 38 students and teachers attending the teen prayer breakfast at the South Side Church of Christ Tuesday morning.

Mick Hecker and Lucinda Graham led the singing accompanied by Linda Hollingsworth. All are seniors at Washington Senior High School. Mary Ann Rudduck offered prayer.

Following the breakfast, Maurice Pfeiffer, a counselor at the Washington C. H. Middle School, spoke on "Your Purpose of Living." He told the youth that our main purpose in life is to serve God. Work, school and sports, are never to become our main purpose, no matter how much we love them, he said. He then dismissed the session with prayer.

The next prayer breakfast will be Tuesday morning, March 2 at 6:45 a.m. All teens, grades nine through twelve, are welcome to attend.

Realtors eye tax problems

Tax problems were discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Fayette County Board of Realtors held Monday in the Terrace Lounge.

Paul Campbell, of the Calendine and Campbell accounting firm, shared some insights on tax-related problems tax credit on the purchase of new homes, taxes on installment purchases and various problems relating to capital gains taxes involved in the buying and selling of real estate.

Twenty-seven realtors, associates and guests attended the luncheon meeting conducted by president (Charles W. (Bud) Mustine. Reports were presented by secretary Robert Green and treasurer Joe White.

Flax was once an important crop in Ohio, spun and woven in the home and made into linen for the household. In 1869 Ohio produced 80 million pounds of flax fiber. This was reduced to two million pounds by 1886 due to cheaper gunny cloth from the East Indies which resulted in closing down of the state's flax mills.

Dixville Notch prefers Ford

Ballots being cast in New Hampshire

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Voters in New Hampshire chose between Ronald Reagan and President Ford on the Republican side and picked from a crowded field of Democrats in the nation's first presidential primary today.

By tradition, residents of the tiny mountain resort of Dixville Notch cast the first ballots seconds after midnight and gave the nod to President Ford and former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter.

Ford got 11 votes to Reagan's four. Among the Democrats, Carter got six and Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh, Arizona Rep. Morris K. Udall and write-in candidate Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington one each.

Campaign workers for all the candidates said there was a large segment of undecided Democrats and Republicans hours before most of the polls were to open at 6 a.m. Voting hours across the state vary, with polls closing as late as 8 p.m. in most of the cities and towns.

While Ford and Reagan clashed headon, the five major contenders competing in the Democratic contest were Carter, Udall, Bayh, former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris and R. Sargent Shriver, the party's 1972 vice presidential nominee.

Confusing the Democratic race further were eight lesser known candidates ranging from a Missouri minister to anti-abortion candidate Ellen McCormack. Write-in campaigns also were waged for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and former Texas Gov. John B. Connally, a Republican.

The close race between Ford and Reagan, the former two-term California governor, may come down to the basic tasks of getting supporters to the polling places. The Ford campaign staged a last minute telephone blitz on election eve urging people to vote.

Republican and Democratic strategists predicted a low turnout, perhaps no more than 100,000 on the Republican side. The state has about 164,000 registered Republicans, 115,000 registered Democrats and 140,500 independents.

In Washington, Ford told Maine Gov. James Longley on Monday that he was "quite confident and very optimistic" about his chances in New Hampshire, where Reagan spent all or parts of 19 days hunting for support.

But for the Ford camp there also was a worry about what effect Richard M. Nixon's trip to China might have on the election, since Nixon's fresh exposure might revive memories of Ford's decision to pardon the former President.

"I think people might be thinking about it, but they're not talking about it," said Hugh Gregg, Reagan's state campaign chairman.

The candidates of both parties hoped to ride a good showing here into the primaries ahead. There are 30 primaries to come after today, with Massachusetts and Vermont voters casting ballots March 2.

The New Hampshire primary has since 1952 been a barometer of candidate strength and weakness. No president since then has been elected without having won in New Hampshire first.

President Ford was the only candidate to flatly forecast victory, and an aide predicted the President will win "handily" although he declined to give specific percentages.

Gregg said he expected Reagan to get "something over 40 per cent." He said that showing would be considered a victory against an incumbent, though appointed, president.

Reagan campaigned Monday in Illinois for the March 16 primary there, and Ford was in Washington, where he took a slap at his rival, telling the National Governor's Conference that he would "never irresponsibly transfer serious problems from the federal government to the state governments without regard for human needs and fiscal realities."

Ford did not mention Reagan by name, but obviously referred to Reagan's proposal to transfer a variety

In Madison County court

Aggravated murder suspect arraigned

LODNON — John R. Hastings, 23, Rt. 3, Mount Sterling, was arraigned Monday before Madison County Court Judge Monte White on a charge of aggravated murder in Friday night hammer slaying of his father, Harold C. Hastings, 61.

Judge White set bond at $100,000 for Hastings and scheduled a preliminary hearing for Thursday. He also appointed Edward Van Deusen, a Plain City attorney, to represent Hastings.

The elder Hastings was slain about 6:30 p.m. Friday in the kitchen of the small house the family lived in on a farm on Anderson-Antioch Road just northeast of Mount Sterling.

Madison County Sheriff Herbert Markley said the elder Hastings apparently was slain during an argument with his son. He was struck six or seven times in the head with a claw hammer and died of massive head injuries.

The son was arrested at 2:30 a.m. Saturday following a high-speed car chase by Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson and Deputy Charles Wise.

The father's body was discovered by his wife, Alice when she returned home around 10:50 p.m. Friday from her job

at Orient State Institute.

Sheriff Thompson and Wise spotted a parked car in northeastern Fayette County which sped off when they approached. The car, a 1968 model Chevrolet, matched the description of the one driven by murder suspect being sought by Madison County authorities.

The car was pursued by Sheriff Thompson and Wise for three miles and during the chase Thompson fired two shots above it. Two Madison County sheriff's deputies established a roadblock and stopped the car about 2:30 a.m. at the intersection of Post and Knight roads.

Hastings was armed with a .25-caliber automatic pistol. An occupant of the car, Roger L. Hastings, 17, the younger brother of the murder suspect, was not armed, investigating officers said.

Madison County Sheriff's Chief Deputy Robert Anderson said the younger brother was not involved in the slaying and did not even know of it at the time they were stopped.

Private funeral services for the elder Hastings were held today in the Porter Funeral Home, Mount Sterling.

Witherspoon to end 35-year mail career

Local postmaster sets retirement

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

Richard R. Witherspoon, postmaster at the Washington C. H. Post Office for the past five years, will retire from the position effective Feb. 29.

Witherspoon, 57, has served as postmaster since 1971. The decision to retire after 35 years of service was reached by Witherspoon "four or five months ago," he said.

An officer in charge will be appointed for the local office and he will serve in the position for about four months before a new postmaster is selected. Witherspoon said the officer in charge will not be considered for the postmaster's appointment.

Witherspoon, who began his postal service career in Washington C. H. in 1941, was named officer in charge by the Cincinnati regional office on Nov. 1, 1969, upon the retirement of Frank E. (Shanty) Boylan who had held the position following the death of Postmaster Clark Wickensimer.

As postmaster, Witherspoon has been responsible for establishing policy for the Washington C. H. office and providing supervision for the 33 employees of the local office.

Witherspoon, 726 Yeoman St., was the first postmaster in Washington C. H. "to go through the ranks." Prior to his selection as postmaster five years ago, the position was held by political appointments. The postmaster's position was established in Washington C. H. in 1813.

Despite handling complaints from sometimes angry customers and the frequent criticism received, Witherspoon said he has "never regretted" the postal service profession.

"I've enjoyed it immensely and there's always been a great bunch of fellows to work with here. They've made it real easy for me," Witherspoon said.

Witherspoon, whose first experience in the postal service profession came when he served as a substitute clerk

Lions Club show taking shape

With only three rehearsals remaining, preparations for the Washington C. H. Lions Club's annual variety show are nearing completion. The show's dancers, singers and those involved in specialty acts and skits will be adding the final touches to the bicentennial-flavored production during two practice sessions this week and one rehearsal next week.

But, while the cast members are rehearsing for the final times, a number of other persons have been working diligently in preparation for the musical comedy program entitled "Happy Birthday U.S.A."

Costumes are being completed this week by a committee headed by Mrs. Frank Weade while the unheralded stage crew is busy arranging the proper lighting techniques, stage scenery and sound equipment in the Washington C. H. Middle School auditorium where the performance will be presented.

A full dress and rehearsal will be held Saturday, March 6. The show will open at 2 p.m. Sunday, March 7 and the production will also be staged at 8 p.m. on Monday, March 8 and Tuesday, March 9.

Rehearsals, which were launched Jan. 14, have been moved from the Fayette Progressive School to the Washington C. H. Middle School auditorium where the three final practices will be held.

Co-producer Larry Lehman said this year's production will be highlighted by patriotic, popular tunes, minstrel and spiritual numbers in addition to snappy dance routines and rib-tickling comedy skits. The pattern of the two-hour show will trace high points of the nation's history over the past 200 years and will be a prominent feature on Fayette County's bicentennial celebration activity calendar.

The show, according to Lehman, will begin with segments and songs by an almost entirely male chorus from the popular Broadway musical "1776." Following the "1776" opening will be a spiritual and minstrel music chorus, a Civil War era section, a portion entitled "Work Built America" to be followed by a birthday party chorus and a patriotic finale.

Tickets are being sold on a reserved basis this year in anticipation of record-shattering audiences. The tickets, priced at $2 per person, can be purchased from any member of the Lions Club.

Council to consider income tax measure

Washington C. H. City Council will act on a proposed one-half per cent income tax ordinance Wednesday night, and City Manager George H. Shapter will request that the ordinance be passed immediately as an emergency measure.

Shapter will ask City Council to suspend the three-readings requirement and pass the ordinance during the meeting so that necessary preparation can be completed before the April 1 effective date of the tax itself.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the City Office Building.

Shapter noted that time will be required to engage the services of a computer firm to handle the tax information. If Steele Data Processing, Washington C. H., is not the successful bidder, the city's entire tax system would have to be reprogrammed by the successful computer firm, he said. The city manager added that it is important to begin April 1 because it is the first day of the second quarter of the year which simplifies withholding for local employers.

In other matters, an ordinance authorizing payment of bills due C. F. Bird and R. J. Bull, Inc., the city's engineering firm on the sewer project, will appear for its third reading, and an ordinance to accept the annexation of

Nixon trip sparks ire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon's visit to China is stirring criticism from both sides of the political spectrum but has won the support of Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield.

New Hampshire newspaper publisher William Loeb said he thinks Nixon's trip "is rather pathetic." Loeb, an outspoken conservative, told the Washington Press Club Monday night that Nixon is "attempting to pull up his image by going over there." He said, "I wish the Chinese would keep him."

In Congress, Rep. Donald Riegle, D-Mich., said in a speech on the House floor that "all America ought to be outraged at the tasteless behavior of former President Nixon for his obvious meddling in U.S. foreign policy."

Riegle said, "What business does President Ford have in providing Secret Service protection to a crook like Nixon, who is so shameless he still hasn't been man enough to say he's sorry to the American people?"

Mansfield said Nixon's visit will help keep U.S.-Chinese contacts alive. He also said he assumes Nixon will report to the State Department on his return.

Meanwhile, some State Department officials reacted angrily to Nixon's toast in Peking which they interpreted as a slap at the Helsinki conference on security and cooperation in Europe, originated during the Nixon administration.

During his toast at a welcoming banquet, Nixon said it was "naive" to believe that the "mere signing of a statement of principles or diplomatic conference will bring instant and lasting peace." He did not mention any specific conference or statement.

RETIRING — Richard R. Witherspoon, postmaster in Washington C. H. for the past five years, will end a 35-year postal service career when he retires effective Feb. 29.

Income distribution grows more unequal

BOSTON (AP) — The distribution of income in the United States has become more unequal over the last five years, with blacks and poor whites losing ground, a Harvard University economist says.

Also, economic equity has deteriorated, Andrew F. Brimmer of the Harvard Business School said Monday. "This is a reversal of the trends evident during the preceding decade," Brimmer told the 142nd annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in a special public lecture.

"In general," he said, "over the last five years, income has been redistributed so as to favor whites vs. blacks, the better off vs. the poor, the newer regions of the country vs. the old, and the suburbs vs. both rural areas and central cities."

During the strong expansion of the economy in the 1960s, Brimmer said, blacks, poor people and the least skilled got a somewhat larger share of total income.

"In contrast, during the last five years — under the combined impact of high inflation rates and slower economic growth — these disadvantaged groups have fallen further

SSI overpayments said serious

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The Social Security Administration made overpayments of $197 million to the nation's elderly, blind and disabled in the first six months of a new distribution system, an independent audit report maintains.

A large share of the overpayment by the Supplemental Security Income program is claimed by 31 states which have their own state social security programs. The states plan to use the report as a basis for recovering their money.

The negotiations are going to be

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst is off the witness stand in her bank robbery trial after steadfastly refusing to answer prosecution questions despite a judge's order, and her attorneys are focusing now on psychiatric opinions about her state of mind.

After Miss Hearst invoked 5th Amendment protection against self-incrimination 42 times in front of her jurors Monday, chief defense attorney F. Lee Bailey declared bitterly, "The damage is done."

Bailey planned today to resume questioning Dr. L.J. West, a court-appointed psychiatrist who testified Monday that a "shattered" Miss Hearst showed signs of profound fear in the weeks after her Sept. 18 capture.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. had fought against admission of the psychiatric testimony, but U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter ruled that Bailey could call to the stand three experts who have examined the 22-year-old defendant.

West was the first witness Bailey

called Monday after Miss Hearst concluded her six days of testimony by defying Carter's order to answer questions relating to a year of her life on the run.

Carter said Miss Hearst had relinquished 5th Amendment protection when she took the witness stand in her own defense and warned her that he would cite her for contempt of court if she did not answer Browning's questions. But the judge did not pursue the matter when Bailey instructed his client to remain silent.

Miss Hearst, kidnapped by the Symbionese Liberation Army in February 1974, said sympathizers of the terrorist tribe would kill her and harm her family if she testified about the year. Her testimony could link revolutionaries to crimes she may have some knowledge of.

"I refuse to answer on the grounds that it may tend to incriminate me and cause extreme danger to myself and my family," she said initially. Her remaining answers were simply, "I refuse to answer."

The prosecution contends that Miss

Hearst freely remained with the depleted ranks of the SLA and helped plan bank robberies in Northern California from September 1974 until her arrest a year later.

Bailey contends Miss Hearst was still a hostage, her every act committed in fear for her life, and that any testimony about what the judge calls the "blank year" could trigger further indictments against her.

Bailey was clearly angered by Carter's decision to allow the government to probe into the 12-month period, leaving his client to risk the "adverse inference" of pleading the 5th Amendment in front of her jury.

It was the first time the jurors had heard Miss Hearst refuse to answer prosecution questions, although she had invoked the 5th Amendment last week with the jury absent.

Browning placed document after document before Miss Hearst and stood back as she refused to say whether she could identify them. The notebooks and papers, some of the defendant's handwriting, involved diagrams and information on a number of banks.

Stocks show small gains

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced moderately today, shrugging off profit-taking pressures.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up about 2 points in the early going, and gainers held a slight edge on losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Trading was active.

Analysts said investors were continuing to respond to signs of improving business activity without any accompanying evidence so far of resurgent interest rates or inflation.

Today's early prices included International Telephone & Telegraph, off 1/4 at 29 1/4; W. R. Grace, up 1/4 at 32 1/4; Levitz Furniture, unchanged at 7, and Archer Daniels Midland, down 3/4 at 24 1/4.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average dipped 2.52 to 965.28.

of federal social programs to the states.

Although Udall and Carter were acknowledged as heading the Democratic pack, both shied away from the frontrunner label. Bayh said he would have to finish among the top three, and Harris said he expected to finish at least third.

Udall and Carter campaigned in the state for more than a year and were believed to have the best organizations of any of the Democrats. Harris waged a populist campaign and was the only contender among the five not to have much support among party regulars.

All the Democratic candidates on the New Hampshire ballot, plus Jackson and Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania, appeared at a League of Women Voters forum in Boston on Monday night.

As had been the case in past joint appearances, the candidates agreed more often than they disagreed during the program, which was beamed into New Hampshire over public television.

"Maybe," quipped Harris as the tempo slowed to a crawl, "we could play the Ali-Coopman fight for the last 30 minutes." His reference was to the heavyweight fight between Muhammad Ali and Jean-Pierre Cooman last week.

FBI telephone data snared innocents

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI collected information on thousands of persons who had no involvement in militant activities simply because they called or received calls from telephone numbers once used by alleged extremists or subversives, congressional auditors say.

The FBI also maintained a super-secret computerized "stop index" containing names of nearly 4,300 alleged subversives and extremists, the General Accounting Office said.

The disclosures were contained in the GAO's final report on its 20-month-long investigation of the FBI's domestic intelligence operations. The report was made public Monday.

Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats, head of the GAO, was scheduled to present the findings to a House Judiciary subcommittee today.

The report said the FBI in 1969 created a computerized telephone number file "for use in criminal investigations" but used it in domestic intelligence operations from February 1971 to February 1975.

Under the system, the FBI maintained a computer list of phone numbers used by persons under investigation for militant activities.

The FBI then scanned telephone company records for the phone numbers of persons who called or received

The additional numbers were fed into the FBI computer and kept for three months on a supplemental list.

"If a telephone number on the supplemental list received a certain number of calls from a number already listed in the file during the three-month period, the appropriate field office was directed to determine the subscriber, check the FBI field office indexes and make a preliminary inquiry," the auditors related.

The GAO said 89,913 telephone numbers were processed through the system between April 1971 and July 1973.

Report from citizens study committee

Why City Council can't rob Peter to pay Paul (anymore)

The Citizens Study Committee has been trying in a series of articles to present to the residents of Washington C. H. clear and factual information about the financial picture of the city. There is a question that needs to be asked. How did the present financial troubles arise?

Basically, the answer is that essential services have been under-funded. The city has not raised enough in local taxes for several years to actually support the services residents demand from the city. To understand this, residents need to remember that the city of Washington C. H. has a tax duplicate of about $40,000,000. That means that a one-mill levy will raise about $40,000 per year. Since the Washington C. H. Police Department budget is $282,518, it would take seven mills if the city supported the police by local property tax revenue. It would take five mills to support the Washington C. H. Fire Department. It would take seven mills for the City Offices.

Last year the voters turned down a one-mill levy for police, a one mill levy for the general fund and three-tenths of a mill for the cemetery. That totals $92,000 of revenue. However, even that much money would not have yielded a balanced budget in 1976 if the levies had been approved. In other words, even the levies that the residents of Washington C. H. have been paying have not been sufficient to pay for necessary services.

The city has had this kind of under-funding problem for many years. If the levies had been approved last year, the city probably would have limped through 1976 as it has in the past. But when both the levies and the income tax were voted down, the past problems caught up in a hurry.

There are three reasons why the city was able until now to continue functioning even though services are under-funded. First, the city gets money in the form of revenue sharing from the federal government. It gets money from the state sales tax. It gets money from people who pay fines and so on. Secondly, Washington C. H. City Council has responded to impending financial crisis in the past by voting an income tax. Although it was repealed twice, it did bring in enough money to keep things going. Third, City Council transferred money from other funds into the general fund. Money was spent from the sewer fund and the street fund, to name only two, for general fund purposes.

These ways of financing the city have now caught up. For example, with the defeat of the levies last November also will go a substantial part of the federal revenue sharing. Revenue sharing is based upon how much a local community raises in its own taxes. But most important of all, the city just doesn't have any more money to transfer from other funds to keep things going. Peter has been robbed to pay Paul for so long that Peter just doesn't have any more money to give.

The present situation is more complicated than what has been said so far. There is another 1.70 mills that the citizens of Washington C. H. pay. It is the "inside millage". This millage can be put on without a vote by the residents. Due to the fact that the city has many bonds outstanding and it is necessary that provision be made for paying these bonds, the Fayette County Budget Commission ruled that all the inside millage had to go for bond retirement. Therefore, the city cannot have the revenue for general fund purposes that would normally come from this source. There is another debt problem. Parking Lot No. 2 was purchased for $93,000 in 1974. Since that time no payment has been made on the principle. The interest has been paid but the city still owes as much as it did in the beginning although the city has this asset. The money hasn't been available to pay off the debt.

All of this left City Council in a difficult position. Council members really have only three choices. First, they can cut services and personnel to take up the slack. Second, they can cut some and raise some additional revenue. Third, they can raise enough revenue to keep things going. If Council decides to raise revenue, there are two ways to do it. Council can put levies on the ballot or it can vote an income tax. They have no other choices. A property tax, if approved, would not help at all in 1976 because the money from it wouldn't come in until 1977. In order to raise money in 1976, an income tax is the only way to do it. The question is, in the short run, do we want our city services cut in 1976 or do we want to pay an income tax? The question in the long run is, what kind of city do we want?

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 25

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)
Exercise extreme caution in financial matters. Due to having insufficient data, there could be danger in signing contracts, especially.
TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)
Maintain an intelligent, critical distance from those who do not hold to your principles while you also aim to better understand their reasoning.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)
A new light thrown upon certain situations should prime you for fine advancement in the office. Rouse yourself to work for superlative attainment.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)
A day of great inspiration! Your innate perspicacity and knack for pleasing, applied in the right areas, could boost your status considerably.
LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)
Many skirmishes can be lost, but the final battle gloriously won. You may face trials and opposition now, but keep working toward that wonderful conclusion!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
You can run an efficient, flexible program if you remain your innately logical self, and keep your mind free of irrelevances. Unusual ideas and methods favored.
LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
Don't believe everything you hear now, but look for the truth and, when you find it, recognize, respect it. Rumors may be spread deliberately.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
Don't crowd yourself or others with too many activities, too many balls to juggle at once. Neither anticipate difficulties nor leave yourself open to them.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
Don't let the restrictions of routine dampen your ardor for achievement. But, on the other hand, don't overtax yourself. There are judicious limitations for all endeavors.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
You may have a tendency toward lethargy now. Don't yield to it, since the best intentions in the world will produce nothing if not followed up by constructive effort. In self-mastery lies your answer.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
As with Capricorn, you may have to discipline yourself sternly to keep on the road to accomplishment. Be especially careful not to lose your self-control if certain persons annoy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)
Your capacity for recognizing the plights and misfortunes of others needed now. Do all in your power to assuage distress, inspire others to superior performance.

YOU BORN TODAY are like most Pisceans, extremely idealistic, intuitive and endowed with outstanding artistry and creativity. All this, of course, if living up to your innate standards and profiting by your star-given assets. The under-developed Piscean, on the other hand, can be given to self-indulgence, excesses and a complete indifference to the many talents which COULD bring him great success and happiness. Your life's ambition, therefore, should be, not only to master yourself but to master those talents which have been given to you. And you have so many fields from which to choose! Music, painting, writing, for instance. You also have good technical and mechanical ability; may, therefore, choose a career along these lines and pursue one of the arts avocationally. In any event, do not waste what could be truly an outstanding life.

Gun control bills pondered

By TOM DIEMER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three gun control bills will be considered this week by a House committee in a last gasp attempt to pass the controversial legislation during the current session.

In the present versions, none of the three bills would deal with handgun registration or the outlawing of the cheap, poorly made pistols, often referred to as "Saturday night specials."

However, Rep. Michael G. Oxley, R-82 Findlay, sponsor of a bill that would require a "cooling off" period before the purchase of a handgun, plans to offer an amendment that would ban the sale of some cheap firearms.

"They're just so replete in major cities," said the former F.B.I. agent. "They're not used for anything except killing some one."

House Judiciary Chairman Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, who has set a Thursday panel vote on all three measures, opposes Oxley's amendment because of the way it defines "Saturday night specials."

The legislative package before the committee would set mandatory 2 to 5 years prison terms for gun-related offenses, permit juveniles to be tried as adults on charges involving a gun, require registration of firearms dealers and require a five-day waiting period before buying a gun.

In addition to Oxley, the sponsors are Reps. Troy Lee James, D-9 Cleveland, and Ike Thompson, D-13 Cleveland.

Oxley's prospective amendment would define a "Saturday night special" as a handgun costing no more than $25, carrying a barrel of three inches or less, a caliber of 32 or less, and capable of being melted at 800 degrees fahrenheit.

Lehman, a persistent advocate of tough gun control legislation, says Oxley's definition is too narrow to adequately address the problem. "It's cosmetic," he said.

The Cleveland-area attorney cited the price ceiling as the most objectionable feature in the Oxley plan. "Under no circumstances would I vote in favor of something that set a price because it would just drive the market price above the standard set in the bill," he said.

Lehman estimates that anywhere from a million to 1.5 million of the cheap handguns are already in the hands of Ohioans. And under current law, most law-abiding citizens are entitled to carry handguns, even if the weapons are concealed.

Dear Abby:

Tops and Bottoms rate high in reader survey

DEAR READERS: Yesterday, I published the first part of the results of my reader survey on what men first notice about women. (Bosoms were way out in front, with figures including legs and fannies coming in second and eyes, third.)

Here are the remaining results: Twenty per cent of the men who wrote in notice a woman's clothes and grooming first. In this category was included "how she smells." From Arizona: "If she looks attractive and seems interested in me, I get close enough to get a whiff of her. If she doesn't smell 'clean,' I move on. Many Canadian men said, 'Heavenly perfumed women lose me!'"

A woman's attire was noticed by more men from eastern states: Pennsylvania, Maryland, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire.

More Southern gentlemen on the other hand, first notice a woman's complexion. (From New Orleans, one man wrote: "I don't like to see women with a lot of makeup. The less paint and varnish, the better I like her.")

Mail from men in every state (but not in great numbers mentioned that they notice a woman's hair first. ("Blondes catch my eye first," a Sarasota, Fla. man wrote, "but most blondes aren't natural, and I prefer nature's color.") Many men said they prefer longer hair on women and hair-dos that look natural—"the kind a man can run his fingers through," wrote a Virginia male who took his own survey at a poker club.

Next on the list of things noticed first by men came "teeth and smile." (A Denver man wrote, "I notice a woman's teeth first because I'm a dentist.")

I observed that more men from small towns notice a woman's teeth and smile than do those from the big cities. From Sioux City, Iowa, a girl-watcher wrote, "If a woman has a smile on her face, I am attracted to her like a magnet. I don't mean a phony, put-on smile; I mean one that comes from within and makes her eyes shine and her lips turn up."

Of the 32 men who stated that they noticed a woman's "voice" first, 21 were from Canada!

More than 100 men wrote that they notice a woman's jewelry first because, "I'm in the jewelry business," or a woman's shoes, because "I'm in the shoe business." Many plastic surgeons wrote that because of their professions, they notice whether or not a woman had plastic surgery. Ditto for dentists, who automatically notice a woman's teeth first. Men in fashion noted that they notice a woman's apparel first. Physicians admitted they notice if a woman has a "healthy" appearance.

From Rome, Italy: "Her posture how she carries herself and how she moves. Is she graceful or clumsy? Does she have confidence and poise? If not, she probably lacks experience and sophistication."

One man wrote from Missoula, Mont. "I'm only 5 foot 4, so the first thing I notice about a girl is whether she is taller than I am."

Next week I'll disclose the results of the survey on what women notice first in men.

Fayette County Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman sentenced the defendant, Robert M. George, 28, of 536 Comfort Lane, to a prison term of 18 months to five years. He will be transported to the Chillicothe Correctional Institute for incarceration.

Fayette County Sheriff's Sgt. William R. Crooks and Deputy Donald Cox had described to the jury how they discovered more than a pound of marijuana under George's control November 30, 1975.

The deputies had warrants for his arrest on bad check charges when they observed the defendant in an automobile with a young Washington C. H. man. They stopped the vehicle to serve George with the warrants and noticed weapons and a paper bag on the car's floorboards and back seat.

to search the vehicle and found six bags of marijuana in the car in addition to a rifle and lengths of chain. Another 25 bags of marijuana were found in the trunk.

Both the driver of the auto, George E. Vinion Jr., 18, of 722 Peabody Ave., and George were arrested for possession of more than 200 grams of the hallucinogen. The total weight of the drug was more than a pound.

The trial opened Monday morning with the seating of jurors. The jury was seated at 11:30 a.m. and the attorneys gave their opening statements.

Assistant county prosecuting attorney John H. Roszmann represented the state while Robert L. Brubaker served as defense counselor.

Testimony in the case concluded in early afternoon, and the jury retired for deliberations at 3:40 p.m. They returned with the verdict at 5:10 p.m.

Seated on the jury were Max E. Grim, foreman, Richard Leslie, Jeannette Kearney, William F. Jones, Coyt A. Stookey, Jeannie Cummings, Wilean Stackhouse, Beatrice Roberts, Joe Giebelhouse, Dorothy Davis, Elizabeth Pentzer and William Dunn. Vinion, who faced the same charge, had pleaded guilty earlier and received a slightly milder sentence.

ANOTHER JURY trial was slated to begin in Common Pleas Court Tuesday morning, but the defendant pleaded guilty and jurors were notified that they did not have to appear.

Danny D. Daugherty, 23, of Bainbridge, pleaded guilty to grand theft and was sentenced to a term of six months to five years in jail.

While being questioned by city police in connection with the passing of altered United States currency at local taverns, Daugherty allegedly ate portions of the bills which had been held by the police as evidence. He was then charged with tampering with evidence, an even more serious charge than the passing of the bills themselves.

In negotiations, Roszmann agreed to drop the evidence tampering charge in exchange for a guilty plea to the original theft count. Daugherty agreed. Because he had a prior theft conviction, the defendant was sentenced under a felony statute rather than a misdemeanor.

He had taken one-dollar bills and affixed the corners from $20 bills over the "1." Then he entered dimly lit taverns and passed the bills as $20 notes. He purchased small items and left the establishments with the change.

Gloria Swanson seeks tax trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Actress Gloria Swanson has asked for a jury trial before the U.S. Tax Court to decide the validity of an Internal Revenue Service claim that she owes $14,000 on her 1969-70 taxes.

However, the court has never had a jury trial in its 52-year history, according to court clerk Charles S. Cassaza.

Miss Swanson's lawyer says she needs a jury because she is fighting "bureaucratic opposition deliberately designed and relentlessly pursued against her."

Burton, Taylor splitting again

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor, remarried last year after a divorce, reportedly have agreed to separate again.

The hint of new trouble in the Burton marriage arose when it was learned that a party for Miss Taylor's 44th birthday, arranged for next Friday by producer Alexander Cohen, had been canceled.

"I'm sure that under the circumstances I wouldn't want to be having a party," Miss Taylor was quoted as telling Cohen by telephone early Monday.

Schorr defends leaking report

NEW YORK (AP) — Television newsman Daniel Schorr, suspended by CBS for leaking a secret House intelligence report, says he believes the central question in any legal battle he may face remains the public's right to know.

"Experience has taught that it is not possible to work as a reporter while personally involved in a controversy over reporters' rights, and I accept that reality," Schorr said Monday. A CBS correspondent for 23 years, he has maintained that he "could not be responsible for suppressing the report."

The House Ethics Committee was scheduled to meet today to consider finding Schorr in contempt of Congress. The House voted 269 to 115 on Thursday to investigate circumstances of the leak of the report.

Remap board meet eyes court action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Democrats have the next move in an unfolding Statehouse drama which Gov. James A. Rhodes hopes will conclude with the return to power of Republicans in the General Assembly.

Rhodes convened the state Apportionment Board Monday to lay the groundwork for a legal effort to redraw Senate and House district lines. Board members voted 3-0 to request that Atty. Gen. William J. Brown, a Democrat, appoint special counsel to represent them in federal court.

They took the action without the two Democratic members of the board, Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson, and Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, who failed to show for the onehour session.

Before making any changes in the legislative map, Rhodes must get permission from a federal judge in Cleveland who in 1973 issued a permanent restraining order against any tampering with the current apportionment plan.

The Senate, which returned Monday night from weekend recess, a day ahead of the House, received new legislation from Sen. Donald J. Pease, D-13 Oberlin, to establish a nonpartisan apportionment board from which legislators would be excluded.

He said his legislation—one bill and a constitutional amendment—was not a reaction to Rhodes' efforts. "I've been working on this for more than a year." His proposal, he said, "would take party politics out of the process by which state legislative and congressional district boundary lines are drawn."

Republicans on Rhodes' realigned apportionment board want the attorney general to name a special counsel to ask U.S. District Court Judge Frank Battisti, a Democrat, to vacate or modify his order.

Brown was out of town Monday, but a spokesman said a decision would be made before the board's next meeting March 1.

If Brown refuses to act, the Republicans said they would force his hand with a mandamus action in the Ohio Supreme Court "to compel the apportionment."

There were 135 who registered for the happy occasion of his 100th birthday. He received hundreds of birthday cards, some of whom could not attend, as well as telephone calls. His wife, Mrs. Ninette Morton Thompson, died in 1958 and Mr. Thompson lived alone for two years, but in 1960 he was fortunate in securing Mrs. Cryder as his housekeeper. Pictures of the group were taken, as well as the lovely refreshment table, where the patriotic colors of red, white and blue were used in the lovely floral centerpiece of carnations and mums.

Mrs. Clyde Payton made a beautiful white sheet cake, frosted in white and decorated with a crown, inscribed "King for a Day." Another neighbor Mrs. Mildred Eyre, asked Mrs. Lavina Barrett to bake a special cake, which was a large white cake with round dome in center, frosted in white and trimmed in red and blue, resembling the State Capitol building. The party favors were red and white flags atop Valentine gumdrops, and the cake was served with a tiny American flag thereon. Coffee was served from a silver service, red fruit punch and nuts also graced the table. Several other lovely cakes were given from friends and relatives and used during the afternoon. White napkins, with red and blue decor inscribed with "Happy Birthday Curtis W. Thompson 1876-1976" further carried out the patriotic Bicentennial theme.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Last Tuesday, "M-A-S-H" had an unusual, powerful show. It contrasted newsreel footage of home-front frivolities during the Korean War with scenes of harried M-A-S-H medics coping with a flood of casualties right after Chinese troops entered the war.

Tonight, the CBS series takes another unusual turn with a fine, thoughtful episode done as a TV reporter's documentary on the views and attitudes of the troops manning M-A-S-H.

Clete Roberts, a Los Angeles newscaster and a former Korean War reporter, portrays the visiting newsmen in this episode, filmed in black and white. Parts of the dialogue were improvised by the actors.

It's a good character study, the responses of the characters ranging from sarcastic to gentle, from pompous to compassionate. The bulk of the questions are addressed to Hawkeye. Maj. Burns, Col. Potter and Radar.

Hawkeye (Alan Alda) seems totally disgusted, occasionally self-pitying. Burns (Larry Linville) is, as usual, a sappy superhawk. Radar (Gary Burghoff) remains his usual gentle, unconsciously funny self, while Col. Potter (Harry Morgan) speaks with the blunt realism, tolerance and understanding of a grizzled Army regular on his third war.

Hawkeye is asked if he sees anything good coming out of the Korean War: "Yeah, me. Alive." Col. Potter: "Not a damn thing." Maj. Burns: "Korea will become a shining example of the American policy of benign military intervention."

When asked about boredom, Cpl. Klinger (Jamie Farr), who isn't in drag for a change, grumbles about training films warning against venereal disease: "They say, 'Don't let this happen to you.' I'd like to have it happen to me, to break up the boredom."

Potter, on whether the war will produce any benefits for medicine: "Oh, there are some things that get a practical trying out here that maybe wouldn't in the same speed back home. "But when you counterbalance that with the frightful expense, the frightful destruction and loss of life, I don't think it's an equal balance."

Hawkeye on what he'll do if the war ever ends: "I'd like to take six or seven months and become unconscious. Just sleep ... then I'd like to go to Europe and sleep there for a year."

Nobody will sleep through this show, the final first-run episode of "M-A-S-H" this season. Cheers to the producers of the series for having the guts to offer the unconventional and doing it twice in two weeks.

Group fights to preserve historic site

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The President's Advisory Council on Historic Preservation has scheduled a meeting Feb. 27 concerning a dispute between Kentucky historical preservationists and the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. over the site of a proposed power plant.

The council has asked all parties to attend the meeting at the Louisville office of the Army Corps of Engineers. CG&E wants to build a 1,700-acre power plant complex on the site of Winfield Cottage near Platt's Landing on the Ohio River.

The Kentucky Heritage Commission says the 14-room house, built in 1817, is probably the last river stop still standing that served the pioneer flatboat trade after the Revolutionary War.

A state brochure says the house is the birthplace of Maj. Gen. Edward Richard Spraggs Canby, who accepted surrender of the last Confederate troops at Citronella, Ala., in May 1865.

Both sides in the dispute say possible options in the controversy include demolition of the house or moving it to another site.

Company officials say they have reached agreement on preservation of two nearby sites said to be rich in early Indian archeology.

Spring training delayed

Baseball rift widens

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The rift between the owners and players seems so wide that when the parties meet in Philadelphia on Wednesday they may have to talk from opposite sides of the street.

The city of brotherly love will be an ironic setting for round 21 of the sparring session between the owners' Player Relations Committee and the major league baseball players association after the owners announced on Monday they were delaying the start of spring training.

In explaining the owners' action that stalled spring training and could throw opening day back a couple of weeks, Lee MacPhail, committee member and president of the American League, said: "The idea of playing baseball and negotiating at the same time is not desirable."

Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, responded by saying that keeping the camps closed was counterproductive. "Baseball may be the first industry which, un-threatened by its employees, shuts itself down," he said.

The rites of spring training normally begin March 1, with pitchers and catchers arriving a week earlier.

The owners blame the players for the stalled negotiations which they say forced the stalled spring training.

"The major difference that blocks agreement is the insistence of the association for a reserve system that would be wholly unworkable," said MacPhail and National League President Chub Feeney in a joint statement.

The players say they merely are asking for the rights contained in their individual contracts.

Arbitrator Peter Seitz ruled last December that the renewal clause was structured so the players could play one season beyond their contractual commitment and then become free agents. Federal Judge John W. Oliver agreed with Seitz, so the owners have moved on to the third base umpire, seeking to have a federal appeals court panel overturn Seitz' call.

The three-judge tribunal has taken the matter under advisement.

Reached in Houston, where he is informing players in the area of the status of the negotiations, Miller said the owners were distorting the facts and asking the players to surrender rights that are legally theirs.

"The dispute has been caused by the owners' demand that we retroactively and, in our view illegally, strip the players of rights they now have in their individual player contracts," Miller said.

The longer the delay, the larger the prospect of not beginning the season on time April 8, regardless of whether there is a new labor contract.

"We're going to delay spring training until there is an agreement or sufficient progress to justify going forward," Gaherin said.

Were the owners willing to jeopardize the regular season?

"If we have to," MacPhail said, adding that the owners were prepared to wait "as long as it takes to get an agreement."

There is an exhibition game scheduled for March 9, which now is 13 days away. The game apparently is nearing cancellation.

Top-ranked prep coaches disagree on No. 1 pressure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The coaches of The Associated Press' basketball poll champions disagree over the pressure surrounding their No. 1 status going into Ohio scholastic tournaments.

Don Everett of Class AAA titleholder Canton McKinley and Bob Arnzen of Delphos St. John, the Class AA winner, think their regular titles serve as a plus.

Not so, says Charlie Huggins, the wily mentor of Gnadenhutten Indian

Valley South, the Class A ruler.

"I don't think it can help you along the tournament trail," said Huggins. "It gets other teams sky high for you."

Huggins is the voice of experience. His Rebels have been AP kings three of the last five seasons, but have gone all the way to the state tournament title just once.

Everett, 57, a McKinley assistant mentor 25 seasons until this year, downplays the fact that only nine of 46 poll champions have followed with state tournament crowns.

"In spite of that," said Everett, "I'm a firm believer until you're beaten, you're hard to beat. I think it's a plus."

Said Arnzen, who coached St. John to its first-ever unbeaten regular season: "It's a plus. I always prefer being up there and letting the other teams come to us."

Everett took over McKinley's head job when Bob Rupert left abruptly for a coaching position in Saudi Arabia. "We've got better depth and better balance than last season," he said proudly.

That's a big statement when you consider the Bulldogs were 17-1 last year before going down the tournament trail to the state semifinals. However, four regulars are back from that power.

All five Bulldog starters average in double figures, led by 6-foot-11½ guard Elmer Jackson's 17.5 mark.

"I never figured we ever would have an undefeated team with the teams we play," said Arnzen, who has a 395-182 record in 26 Delphos seasons. The Blue Jays played nine Class AAA foes this winter.

St. John won the Class B state tournament title in 1949 and was runner-up in 1954 and 1973.

Their sons are stars for Arnzen and Huggins.

Jim Arnzen, a 6-foot senior guard, is the Blue Jays' No. 2 scorer with a 15-point average. Harry Huggins, a 6-3 senior center, averages 21 points and 12 rebounds for Indian Valley South.

Another son, 5-10 freshman guard Larry Huggins, is playing a lot for his dad, too.

Barberton finished second and Toledo Scott third in Class AAA.

Warsaw River View, the 1975 Class AA state tournament winner, was second in that division, ahead of No. 3 Lorain Catholic. Arcanum finished a strong runnerup and Lordstown, with the best record in the state at 20-0, was third in Class A.

Unbeaten Rutgers continues assault on Hoosiers top spot

By The Associated Press

Rutgers remains unbeaten and continues its climb up the college basketball ladder, this week reaching the No. 3 rung.

Mighty Indiana, which raised its record to 24-0 by beating Big Ten rival Iowa 101-81 Monday night, retained the top spot in The Associated Press' weekly poll, based on games through Sunday. The Hoosiers received 55 of 59 first place votes and 1,170 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

In last week's action, Indiana beat

Purdue 74-71 and Minnesota 76-64.

Marquette, 22-1, held onto the second spot in the poll, announced Monday, with two first-place votes and 1,000 points.

Next came Rutgers, fourth a week ago. The Scarlet Knights, 23-0, received one first-place ballot and 821 points.

Dropping one notch was North Carolina, 22-2 after a pair of two-point victories over Miami and Virginia last week.

But the big losers in this week's poll were UCLA and Maryland. The Bruins, who had their 98-game home winning streak snapped by Oregon 65-45 Saturday, fell from fifth to ninth place, while Maryland, a two-point loser to Atlantic Coast Conference foe Duke, dropped from seventh to 10th.

Nevada-Las Vegas, 25-1, which scored an NCAA-record 164 points in beating Hawaii-Hilo Thursday, move up one spot to fifth place with 691 points. Notre Dame, 20-4, also climbed one place to sixth with 507 points.

Alabama and Washington both climbed three places, the Crimson Tide landing in seventh with 446 points and the Huskies taking eighth with 394.

Then came UCLA with 371 points — the Bruins were completely overlooked on five of the ballots — and Maryland with 355.

Tennessee, beaten by Auburn in overtime, fell from ninth to 11th. The Vols were followed by Missouri, Michigan, St. John's, North Carolina State, Western Michigan, Oregon, Cincinnati, Centenary and Texas A&M.

Oregon and Texas A&M were the only newcomers to the list. They replaced Louisville and Virginia Tech, both of whom were beaten last week.

Third generation now operating county's oldest car dealership

The Meriweather Motor Co., 1120 Clinton Ave., Fayette County's oldest auto dealership, is now being operated by the third generation of the Meriweather family.

John R. Meriweather, son of Mrs. Connie Meriweather, 940 Clinton Ave., and the late Robert M. (Bud) Meriweather, joined the 48-year-old firm effective Monday as general manager and salesman.

Meriweather, 23, becomes the third generation of his family to operate the auto agency, following in the footsteps of his late father and his grandfather, the late R. R. Meriweather.

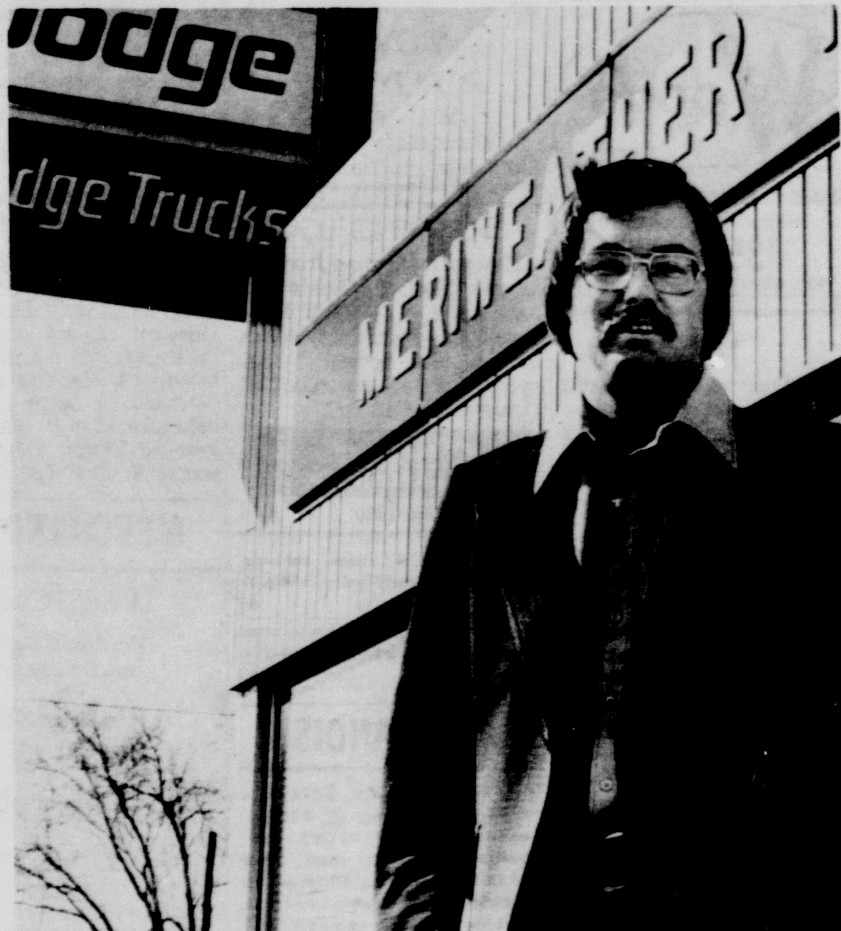

The auto agency marked its 48th year of continuous operation in Washington C. H. on Jan. 11. The business was founded in 1928 by R. R. Meriweather as a Packard-Hudson agency on E. Market Street in the present location of the Central Grocery Co. The building was destroyed by fire on Oct. 15, 1944. The present building on Clinton Avenue was constructed soon after the blaze and the dealership was moved to that location in 1946.

Robert M. (Bud) Meriweather joined his father in the business after being discharged from the military service in 1947. After the death of R. R. Meriweather in January of 1960, Bud Meriweather became owner and operator. He continued in that capacity until his death on Jan. 14.

The agency purchased the Dodge franchise from the former Rhoades Motor Sales in 1957 when Hudson and Packard production ceased. In that year, R. R. Meriweather was recognized as the second oldest Packard dealer in the nation.

The new general manager has been associated with the agency since the age of 14, working for his father at the dealership during the summer months and during vacations from school.

A 1970 graduate of Washington Senior High School where he served as class president during his senior year, Meriweather received a degree in mechanical engineering from Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind., in June of 1974. Following college graduation, he joined the Trane Air Conditioning Co., Columbus, as a sales engineer in July of 1974 and continued in that position until this month.

NEW MANAGER — John R. Meriweather, of Columbus, assumed the position of general manager of the Meriweather Motor Co. in Washington C. H. Monday. The business has always been operated by members of the immediate family and Meriweather becomes the third generation to manage the firm.

He and his wife, the former Terri Haugen, presently reside in Columbus, but are planning to establish residence in Washington C. H.

The Meriweather Motor Co. firm's first employee was Lewis M. Ramsay, 321 E. Market St., who started with the firm on the opening day in 1928 and continued with the organization until his retirement in 1962 after 34 years of service.

The present employees are Clarence (Fuzz) Hart, a mechanic for the past 16 years; Norman West, a mechanic with 14 years of service; William C. (Bud) Miller, parts manager who has been associated with the firm for three years; John Waddle, a mechanic for the past two years, and Gilbert Bireley, a long-time Fayette County resident engaged in auto sales for a number of years. He joined the Meriweather firm in 1974. Mrs. Connie Meriweather has been the agency's bookkeeper since 1957.

The agency is a franchised Dodge car and truck dealership and also carries a used car line.

Firm to aid rate hike foes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William J. Brown has hired a Washington consulting firm to help Ohio homeowners fight a $50.7 million rate hike application by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.

The state Controlling Board approved the $100,000 contract Monday between the attorney general and the firm of Van Scoyoc and Wiskup of Washington, D.C.

The application to the board said special knowledge is needed in such areas as accounting, engineering and economics to properly make a case before the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

"The attorney general does not employ such experts," it said. "The Van Scoyoc and Wiskup firm will provide the services of the five people to assist in analyzing the utility's case."

"No public utility consulting firms in Ohio...have developed the necessary expertise to handle a case of this magnitude," the attorney general said.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Michael R. Szolosi, chief of the attorney general's special litigation section, said the firm would allow the attorney general to thoroughly explore evidence in the case.

Szolosi said that of five intervenors in the rate case, consumers are the only group which to this point have not had full representation.

He said the other four all have interests which to some extent conflict with those of consumers. The other intervenors are the City of Columbus, the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants, General Motors and Sears.

Szolosi said the Coalition of Concerned Utilities Users, a consumer group, has a lawyer, but cannot afford a full presentation before the PUCO.

He said consumers must have both legal representation and expert technical advice in order to properly protect their interests.

Szolosi said the $100,000 is a maximum cost for the consulting services. He said the attorney general hopes to hold the cost to $75,000.

In other action Monday, the board: —Deferred for two weeks a decision on spending $5,000 to hire Dr. William C. Sze to help the state welfare department establish a Vietnamese Resettlement Office.

The board put off the decision when a lawyer for existing volunteer organizations said the state had not attempted to coordinate its new program with existing programs.

—Approved a $3,084 contract with Studio 100 of Columbus to renovate one of the historical cannons on the Statehouse lawn.

—Approved a $3,000 contract between the Department of Economic and Community Development and the Battelle Memorial Institute to prepare a list of European firms with growth potential which might be attracted to Ohio.

—Approved release of about $419,000 in Mental Health and Mental Retardation funds for repair, renovation or construction projects at Apple Creek State Institute, Longview State Hospital, Broadview Center, Cleveland Developmental Center, Columbus State Hospital and Dayton Mental Health Center.

—Approved release of $448,100 to the natural resources department to assist persons displaced by state land acquisitions.

—Deferred for two weeks action on four personal services contracts initiated by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Three of those covered by the contracts are to work on the River Basin Water Quality Development Planning Project, while one is to assist state agencies in developing area waste treatment management plans.

The board said it would defer action for legal advice on the eligibility of such workers for state fringe benefits.

Handling Reactions to Drugs

Reactions to drugs rightfully concern a great many people. Many of my readers write various questions indicating their concern about unusual drug responses.

QUESTION: Are all people sensitive to one drug or another?

ANSWER: Most people are not sensitive, or allergic, to drugs. Yet, even in the absence of a known allergic condition, it is possible to have a sudden, unexpected or unusual reaction to a particular drug.

It is virtually impossible to tell in advance if a patient will react peculiarly to a new drug. It is for this very reason that all patients should be told exactly what a newly prescribed drug is expected to do.

They should also be told that if any unusual side effects occur, the drug should be stopped immediately and not resumed without the doctor's specific direction.

QUESTION: Can a person become sensitive to a drug that he has previously taken without any noticeable side reaction?

ANSWER: This can, and often does, occur. Allergic responses are part of an intricate body mechanism. When one has taken a drug for a long period of time the expected benefits of the drug are known and it is easier to detect an unusual response. Here, too, the drug should be discontinued and consultation with the physician is essential in order to avoid distressing side reactions.

QUESTION: What symptoms indicate an unusual drug reaction?

ANSWER: Skin hives and welts, rashes, itching, watery running of the nose, swelling of the eyes are only a few of the reactions that may follow increased sensitivity to a drug.

QUESTION: Once a person has had a severe reaction to a particular drug will he always be sensitive to it?

ANSWER: Usually this is true. Once a person is known to be sensitive to a drug or antibiotic it is wise to avoid its use, unless there is no available substitute.

QUESTION: What is the treatment for a very severe side reaction to a drug?

ANSWER: Discontinuation of the drug, of course. Antihistamine drugs, cortisone and ACTH, given by the doctor, can control severe drug reactions.

Many people tend to forget their previous reactions to some drugs. It is wise to keep a record of unusual drug responses. In addition, the present physician should be told that there has been a history of unusual reaction to a particular drug.

Clear skies favor much of nation

By The Associated Press

As the most of the country experiences clear winter weather, the Pacific Northwest and the Rocky Mountains braced for a day of rain showers and snow flurries.

Back East in New Hampshire, early morning primary voters found temperatures of zero to ten above, with some snow expected in the northern portion of the state.

The National Weather Service said scattered showers, with snow in some of the higher elevations, will occur from the central and south Pacific Coast into the northern and central Rockies.

Some light snow or flurries was in store in the extreme northern parts of New York and New England.

Elsewhere skies were expected to be clear or partly cloudy. Temperatures were to be a little cooler from the northern and central Rockies into California but will continue unseasonably warm in the Plains.

Unseasonably mild temperatures were in effect from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic Coast.

Temperatures overnight ranged from 6 at Houlton, Maine, to 69 at Miami, Fla.

only $16 MILLION.

That was quite a deal. Even in 1848.

Only problem was: how would you raise $16 million?

Well, thanks to people taking stock in America, that problem was no problem. The government simply offered 20-year, six-percent Treasury Notes to the public.

The response was overwhelming. Well, today's U.S. Savings Bonds are even more attractive. A full 6% at only 5 years' maturity.

So join in America's Bicentennial Celebration by buying U.S. Savings Bonds where you work or bank. It's a better deal than ever.

New E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deducted until redemption.

Did you ever read Kodak's HERE's HOW books? Here are eight of the little Kodak Photo Information Books that are just packed with some of the best articles by some of the top people in photographic work. Take, for example, Kinsley's article on BAD WEATHER PICTURES in HERE's HOW (the first of the series). This boy really knows how to get good pix in bad weather. And on page 16 in THE FOURTH HERE'S HOW begins an article by John W. McFarlane on HOW TO PHOTOGRAPH ANTIQUE CARS. This boy knows his antique cars and he's a top photographer. All eight are, in fact, packed with good stuff, and the first six are also bound together into a hard-back book that should be in your photo library.

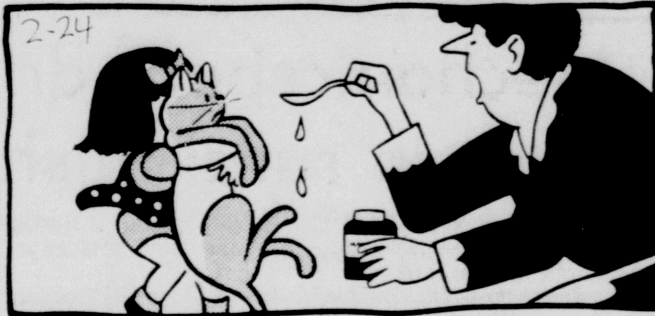

In CKFN class last week we kicked around the idea of what should be included in your gadget bag on a vacation trip. There were as many ideas as there were people there, but there was one point upon which there was complete agreement: a polarizing filter is a must. In my opinion there is no one item that will improve your scenic color shots more than a properly oriented polarizing filter. That's something you might think about.

The bidding:

South West North East

Opening lead - ten of clubs.

It is a basic principle of bridge that when a contract can be made only if the opponents' cards are divided in a certain way, declarer should assume that that distribution exists. Here is a sample of how the principle works.

West leads a club and, when dummy appears, declarer sees that the slam essentially depends on whether or not he can avoid losing a trump trick. There is no good reason not to tackle trumps at once, so South wins the club with the ace, plays a low heart to the ace and a heart back. East showing out, South takes the king and must now solve the problem of how to avoid losing both a trump and a spade.

The task looks impossible, but if South exercises that good old college spirit, he can overcome the 3-1 trump division. He plays a club to the king, ruffs a club, then cashes the A-K of spades and his three diamond tricks.

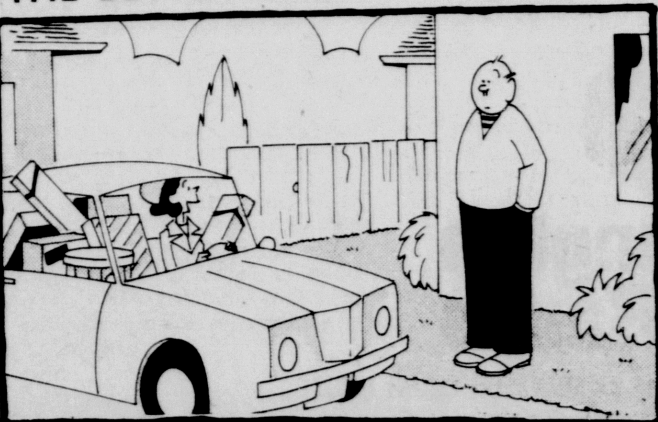

All this back and forth movement is geared to the hope of finding West with a singleton or doubleton spade, in which case the slam can be made. As it happens, this hope materializes - because the situation after the first ten tricks have been played is:

North

Declarer leads a trump at this point, putting West on lead, and South's spade loser vanishes into thin air - whatever West returns.

Prayer breakfast draws 38 persons

"Take Time to Love" was the topic used by the Rev. Charles J. Richmond during the meditation time for the 38 students and teachers attending the teen prayer breakfast at the South Side Church of Christ Tuesday morning.

Mick Hecker and Lucinda Graham led the singing accompanied by Linda Hollingsworth. All are seniors at Washington Senior High School. Mary Ann Rudduck offered prayer.

Following the breakfast, Maurice Pfeifer, a counselor at the Washington C. H. Middle School, spoke on "Your Purpose of Living." He told the youth that our main purpose in life is to serve God. Work, school and sports, are never to become our main purpose, no matter how much we love them, he said. He then dismissed the session with prayer.

The next prayer breakfast will be Tuesday morning, March 2 at 6:45 a.m. All teens, grades nine through twelve, are welcome to attend.

Flax was once an important crop in Ohio, spun and woven in the home and made into linen for the household. In 1869 Ohio produced 80 million pounds of flax fiber. This was reduced to two million pounds by 1886 due to cheaper gunny cloth from the East Indies which resulted in closing down of the state's flax mills.
